PERSONS NOT PARTY COUNT IN MONTANA

Politics In West Is About The Same As In Wisconsin, Says Lawrence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1922 by Post Publishing Co.

LAWRENCE

Whether a man labeled Republican or another labeled Democrat goes to the United States senate turns on state issues and here, as in North Dakota, the Democratic candidate is a conservative while the man who won the Republican primaries is tied up with the radical elements to such an extent that old line Republicans will be found supporting the Democratic ticket in large numbers.

GOV. DIXON RESPONSIBLE

Speakers of persons instead of parties, Governor Joseph Dixon is responsible for the upheaval in Montana. He will be remembered as having represented this state in the United States senate and as one of the original insurgents who managed Colonel Roosevelt's preconvention fight for the presidency in 1912. He was elected governor two years ago on the regular Republican ticket. He won many Democratic votes because he was considered a conservative as compared with E. K. Wheeler, former United States attorney, who with the help of the Nonpartisan league, became the Democratic nominee for governor.

Today Mr. Wheeler is running for the United States senate and the old line Democrats are behind him. Although he had a background of radicalism to overcome he sat down with the regular Democratic organization and a platform was formulated which is eminently satisfactory not only to conservative Democrats but conservative Republicans. This is because the Democrats have aimed their platform at Governor Dixon's radical taxation policies which, so far as conservatives are concerned, stamp Mr. Dixon as more of a radical than they thought Mr. Wheeler ever could be.

WOULD TAX MINES

The fight here is really pro-Dixon or anti-Dixon. The governor has made up his mind to levy heavy taxes on the mining industry and is attempting to justify it on the ground of increased expense in running the state. The Democrats are shouting economy of expenditure and relief from burdensome taxation. In order

CORLISS GETS BANK ROBBER; FOIL VISITOR

Armed Citizens Force Him To Surrender As He Waits For Safe Opening

Racine—The village of Corliss seven miles west of here had a thrilling half hour Friday morning when an attempt was made by William M. Cray, colored, to hold up the Corliss State bank. After the firing of several shots and much excitement Mr. Cray gave himself up and is now lodged in the county jail here.

Shortly before the hour for opening Mr. Cray followed Louis Kradwell, cashier into the building. At the point of a huge navy revolver he forced Kradwell to wait and post signs reading "This bank is closed for the day" and then draw the shades. He then demanded entrance to the vault. Kradwell told him he would have to wait until 9 o'clock as the strong box was controlled by a time lock device. With Kradwell seated in a corner under the cover of his gun, Mr. Cray then set about waiting for the click of the tumblers indicating the opening of the bolts.

Meanwhile James Anders, a farmer had noticed that the colored man had failed to come out of the bank and becoming suspicious, summoned a group of villagers armed with a distinctive collection of fire arms. Several shots were fired when Mr. Cray was seen at a basement window. He then threw his revolver to the waiting men and shouted to Kradwell to tell them he would give himself up. He was then held for Sheriff James.

AVIATORS SMASH ENDURANCE RECORD

San Diego, Calif.—All aviation records have been smashed by Lieutenant J. A. Macready and Oakley Kiley of the United States army who at 8:30 Friday had been aloft in their monoplane T-2 for 26 hours and 34 minutes. The previous record was 26 hours 19 minutes and 33 seconds.

BASEBALL REPORT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Inasmuch as it is impossible to read the world baseball series before Sunday, the Appleton Post-Crescent has arranged for a play by play report of the Sunday afternoon game which will be given to the public in the same manner the week day games are reported. All baseball fans are invited to congregate on the vacant lot between the Post-Crescent and Elk buildings at 1 o'clock in the afternoon to hear the report which will be received over a leased wire direct from the Polo grounds. The games will be reported to the public through a Magnavox loaned by Irving Zuelke.

Coeds At Madison Pass Sad Day; Tear Bobbed Locks, But Happy Now

Law Would Bar Them From Prom And Military Ball But Anguish Is Appeased When Exception Is Made

Madison—Any misgivings that might temporarily have caused excitable coeds of the University of Wisconsin a moment's anguish when they learned that a ruling of Madison's city fathers could be stretched to class the junior promenade a public dance, from which they would be excluded by a dean's order, were quickly dispelled Thursday night by Attorney General William J. Morgan. He advised the girls that then flurry of distemper was needless—all they had to do was to invite people to the prom and it would be taken out of the restricted class, with all privileges restored. A simple solution to a momentarily perplexing problem.

Mayor Kittles also quickly volunteered the information to those who designed it, that the common council when it passed the public dance or promenade and the university military ball were to be excluded from its provisions.

WERE UP IN ARMS

Coeds of the university were up in arms, tearing hobbled hair, and throwing shoes at dressing table mirrors. They were undecided Thursday as to quitting the university or asking the next legislature to move the institution.

The excitement was caused when they thought the new city law classed the junior promenade and the military ball as public dances. Coeds are prohibited by the dean of women from attending public dances under penalty of expulsion.

HERE'S OTHER ISSUE

Another point at issue is the closing of all student dances at midnight instead of 1 o'clock. Professors have complained that students have come to Saturday morning classes bleary-eyed, tired, yawning and lacking in knowledge—all because they attended a 1 o'clock party on Friday night.

GRAASS URGED TO REMAIN IN CONGRESS RACE

Friends Of Green Bay Jurist File Nomination Papers In Madison

Important changes in the congressional situation in the Ninth district have developed in the last 24 hours. These changes indicate that Judge Henry Graass of Green Bay will run as an independent candidate against George Schneider of Appleton, regular nominee.

The Post-Crescent learned Friday morning that nomination papers will be filed with the secretary of state at Madison for Judge Graass on Saturday. These nomination papers were widely circulated and in less than three days approximately 3,000 names were secured. Petitions being sent to Madison will contain about 2,500 names which is six or seven hundred more than the minimum required by law.

Nomination papers came from every county in the district and were voluntarily circulated by men who have been urging Judge Graass to make the independent race.

DEMOCRATS MAY HELP

In this connection it developed that an important meeting of representatives of the citizens of the entire district was held at Green Bay last Saturday when the situation was gone over thoroughly and it was unanimously decided to do everything possible to obtain Judge Graass' consent to run as an independent candidate. This meeting was nonpartisan and was attended by some Democrats.

The Post-Crescent Friday endeavored to learn from Judge Graass if he would file his acceptance to the nomination papers and whether he would make the race regardless of whether Mayor Hanzel of Antigo goes on the ticket. It was regarded here as extremely doubtful whether Judge Graass would run after the announcement of the Democratic conference held in Green Bay Tuesday that Mayor Hanzel would run. At that time it was stated that Hanzel would run as an independent in case of inability to have his name placed on the Democratic ticket.

STATEMENT SATURDAY

Judge Graass would make no definite statement but promised the Post-Crescent that he would undoubtedly have a definite announcement to make Saturday.

In discussing the congressional situation today the Press-Gazette of Green Bay says: "It is said that the decision of the citizens who are behind the Graass candidacy as well as that of the judge himself is that Graass will make the race in case Mayor Hanzel does not succeed in getting his name on the Democratic ballot but in case Hanzel's name goes on the Democratic ticket, Graass will immediately withdraw and not run."

NEW CRISIS IS INJECTED BY FIRM DEMANDS

Turks Want To Invade Thrace Immediately — Greeks Threaten Resistance

By Associated Press

London—A new crisis has arisen in the Near Eastern situation which had seemed on a fair way to settlement. The armistice conference of allied, Greek and Turkish military leaders at Mudania was adjourned suddenly Thursday after a dramatic passage in which Ismet Pasha, representing the Ankara government, demanded that the Turks be allowed to occupy eastern Thrace as a precedent to any peace conference.

Ismet Pasha told the Allied generals that if the Turks could not have Thrace peacefully "we have the means to enforce our determination" earlier in the day the Greek delegates had declared in no less certain terms their readiness to fight, if necessary, to return to the province.

The British cabinet Friday debated the situation in its entirety, but the main point appeared to be the question of Thrace. It is understood the British view is that there should be some consideration given the Greek minority population there and what might happen to it if the Turks were permitted to enter.

The Mudania conference is not ended. It was officially stated at the conclusion of the cabinet meeting, but it is believed that it cannot be resumed before the British and French governments have conferred over the situation.

RESUME MEETING

Constantinople—After conferring for most of the night with the high commission and military experts here the Allied generals Friday morning prepared to leave again for Mudania for a resumption of the armistice conference.

FRENCH PROTEST

Paris—The French government has instructed its minister at Athens to protest against the Greek government having sent reinforcements to the Greek army in Thrace.

The impiousness of sending troops into one of the disputed regions at the moment an armistice is in negotiation, will be pointed out, with the view that the Greek government by this action is adding to the embarrassment of her situation and to that of the Allies.

The form of the French representation is described as firm.

Y. M. C. A. DRIVE OPENS SATURDAY

Banquet For Workers Tonight Will Inaugurate Annual Campaign

What is destined to be one of the most spirited banquets in the history of the Y. M. C. A. is to occur at 8:30 Friday evening when the big color race for 1,400 members gets off to a start. The largest force of workers ever used in a campaign will be seated at the long tables in the gymnasium. It will be a complimentary dinner for the workers.

A tint of color adorns the banquet hall. The decorations are in red, orange, green and blue, the shades represented by the four divisions which are competing for honors in the 3-day drive. The men and boys will be seated by groups according to color divisions. Each wears a button which differentiates him from the other workers.

HARWOOD TOASTMASTER

F. Harwood, president of the Y. M. C. A., will be toastmaster according to the tentative program, and T. E. Orshon, campaign chairman, will preside. There will be community singing of lively songs, after which the talks will be given by J. L. Hettner and H. W. Russell, associate chairmen will assist in the program.

Each division chairman is to give a talk on a specific phase of the campaign and it is likely that each will inject a bit of rivalry through his remarks. Instructions to workers will be given by George F. Werner, general secretary.

Saturday's report lunch will be at 6:15. There will be a supper lunch at 5:30 Sunday evening and a closing dinner at 6:30 Monday.

No time will be lost after the talks in assigning workers to their areas.

Electric Flatiron Is One Of Biggest Fire Hazards

Fire Chief McGillan Warns Care Must Be Used In Handling Electricity

In the electric flatiron lies one of the outstanding fire hazards of today, and users therefore are receiving much advice during fire prevention week. It is the belief of Chief George P. McGillan of the fire department that a number of the fires occurring here each year could be avoided if people would use greater caution in handling electric devices.

"The great increase in the use of electrical appliances, while bringing relief to the busy housewife, has also increased the fire hazards of the home," said the chief. "The careless use of electrical appliances is very dangerous."

"More fires have been started by the self-heating electrical pressing iron than all other devices put together. Few people realize that it is a small portable furnace, the surface of which is capable of heating to a temperature equal to that of other types of furnaces. There is hardly a user who does not from time to time deliberately allow the iron to rest directly on unprotected fabric, covered pressing benches and other combustible material."

CAUSE 80 FIRES DAILY

"It is roughly estimated," continued the chief, "that something like 80,000 fires a year or an average of about 80 fires a day are started by the self-heating irons. It is important that the current be shut off from the iron when not in service, and the safest practice is to disconnect the wire at the socket."

"Don'ts" which will help users of electricity to guard against fires are suggested by Chief McGillan, who urges everyone to read them.

Don't try to avoid expert electrical inspections because of trifling cost or inconvenience. It is your best safeguard and means of protecting life and property from the numerous electrical hazards.

Don't disregard recommendations made by properly informed authorized inspectors. They are made in your own interest and should not be neglected.

Don't permit combustible gases or vapors to be in the same room with sparking motors.

Don't fail to keep all highly combustible material a safe distance from sparking motors or generators and don't allow lint, clippings, rags, waste, sawdust or other inflammable refuse to collect near them.

Don't permit open electric wiring or flexible cords to come in contact with metal or any other material that will carry electricity.

Don't tack or nail electric wiring in place.

As far as possible don't permit metal electric conduits to come in contact with other metal.

Don't allow anyone but an authorized electrician to make any changes in your electric wiring or equipment and don't fail to have all new work or changes inspected by the proper authorities.

Don't use flexible electric cords when permanent wiring can be used.

Don't allow electrical wires to cross.

Don't permit naked wiring or joints or wiring with worn, cut or torn insulation to be used on your premises.

Don't permit electric lamps to come in contact with any combustible material.

Don't permit switches to be exposed or switch box doors to remain open.

Don't fail to keep combustible material a safe distance from under and in fact all sides of switches, fuses, fixture roses, plugs, sockets, and all other parts of electric equipment likely to give off sparks.

Don't leave your electric pressing iron in service unattended and don't fail to have it rest upon a proper stand when not in actual use.

Don't permit heavier fuses to be used when the current is too strong for the fuses required by the local inspectors. An overloading or short circuit is probably causing the fuse to collapse.

Don't use nails or unauthorized wire as fuses. They may have greater power of resistance than the wire in which case an overload of current might melt the wire itself, burn the insulation and start a fire.

Don't use your electrical wire equipment in experimenting.

TOO MUCH MEAT HURTS KIDNEYS

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating too much meat may produce kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges; severe headaches; acid stomach; constipation; torpid liver; sleeplessness; bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so that it no longer irritates, thus often ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

Haskin Does Not Write Essays For School Children

The Director of our free Information Bureau in Washington does not write essays for pupils, because such work is supposed to be done by the children themselves. For the same reason Mr. Haskin declines to answer lists of questions for anyone taking civil service examinations, or participating in contests of any kind.

Neither does the Bureau give advice on legal, medical, nor financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject.

But it does answer thousands upon thousands of questions which are matters of fact, with quotations of authorities.

If you have never used this bureau try it once. There is no charge for the service except two cents in stamps for return postage.

Write plainly and briefly, and address your letter to:

SWEDEN GETS U. S. HEATING SYSTEM

Stockholm—The work of installing an American patent heating system on the Swedish state railways has just begun as one of the constructive results of the government's recent measure to relieve what remains of unemployment and industrial depression. More than $7,000,000 have been appropriated for new construction, purchases of supplies, and similar expenditures.

The state railways have ordered 10 new locomotives, and about 200 new cars, of which 100 will be equipped with the American heating system. It will, however, be manufactured in Sweden. Large amounts will also be spent by the railroads for improved safety signals. The water power department will invest upwards of $2,000,000 in new hydraulic plants, and especially in the electrification of the coast of Northern Sweden, thus further liberating the country from dependence on foreign coal. The department of telegraphs has decided to spend about $750,000 on new cables through the country and special telephone equipment. The state organization of pilotage and lighthouses will modernize lighthouses and erect several new ones, as well as a number of beacons and light buoys. The royal hydrographic department will construct two vessels especially designed for making hydrographic surveys.

The number of unemployed has been reduced by about 75 per cent during the current year.

ISSUING OF MANY DIVORCES MAKES FIUME FAMOUS

Fifteen Thousand Out of 50,000 Get Divorces In 1920 And 1921

By Associated Press

Fiume—This city counts a population of 50,000; 15,000 of them received decrees of divorce in the years 1920 and 1921. Divorce seems to be the most flourishing of the local industries, and it is making the city famous.

The reason is that the severance of the marital bond is easy here, and people desiring freedom flock to Fiume from neighboring states where divorces are not granted. Anyone can get a divorce in Fiume who has lived in the city long enough to acquire the rights of citizenship.

Complications, however, occasionally arise. The case is still remembered of an Italian woman who acquired the citizenship of Fiume and divorced her husband, who remained an Italian subject. Shortly after her divorce she remarried and returned to Italy, where she was promptly imprisoned for bigamy. The Italian law considering her divorce null and void, her husband being an Italian, and, as such, not entitled to divorce.

Natives of the Punjab still spear their fish in small streams with a trident.

PROMPT STEPS WILL SAVE LOSS FROM HOG CHOLERA

Watch for the first hog to show signs of cholera, advises the United States department of agriculture. If the herd is treated immediately it is generally possible to save the herd with few losses. If the disease, however, is allowed to reach all the animals before the serum preventive treatment is applied, heavy losses may be expected. Anthog-cholera serum is a preventive and not a cure for hog cholera, the department points out.

Whenever a hog dies of an unknown cause the owner should watch his herd closely for at least a week and if any more hogs in the herd begin to show signs of sickness a veterinarian should be called immediately, for the chances are that hog cholera has reached the herd and prompt action in applying the serum treatment is the only thing that will save the well animals. A high temperature, ranging from 105 degrees to 108 degrees F., in a hog that staggers when it walks, is a pretty good indication of hog cholera. Such hogs should be segregated and not allowed to mingle with other hogs or to wander about, for they will spread the disease wherever they go, sometimes in places where it is impossible to disinfect. Hogs that die on the farm should be buried, or preferably, burned.

Usually the disease is most prevalent during the fall months.

COUNTY BOARDS PLAN CHANGES IN STATE ROAD TAX

Would Shift Burden From Property Owner To Motor Car Operator

By Associated Press
Madison—Complete revision of the Wisconsin highway tax and automobile licensing laws is proposed by the legislative committee of the Wisconsin County Boards' association in its report completed late Wednesday. Conclusions of the committee will be submitted to individual boards for discussion and action when they meet in November.

The first concrete program for revenue raising to meet the increased cost of highway construction, without adding to the burden of the general property taxpayer is presented by the county board committee. Its recommendations have been arrived at after months of study and consultation with highway experts and tax administrators.

WANT GARAGE TAX
Specific proposals for taxation to raise $10,000,000 for expenditures on roads in the state call for the following:

Continuance of the present $25 fee on garages, estimated to yield $40,000 in 1924.

Continuance of the present $2 fee on motorcycles, estimated to yield $12,000 in 1924.

Continuance of the present $10 fee on automobiles, estimated to produce about $2,500,000 in 1924.

Enactment of a law calling for fairly graduated and largely increased fees upon motor trucks and motor busses, estimated to produce about $1,000,000 in 1924, of which $500,000 would go to cities over 5,000 and their counties direct. Proceeds of license fees on trucks licensed in cities over 5,000 in population to go 75 per cent to cities and 25 per cent to counties.

FIRST YEAR TAX
Enactment of a law establishing a two per cent state highway tax upon all motor vehicles. This tax to be computed on the true valuation of the vehicle, being 90 per cent of the fair factory retail list price in the first year of ownership, 70 per cent the second year, 50 per cent the third year and 35 per cent the fourth and succeeding years. This tax is estimated to yield $3,800,000 in 1924, and would tax all cars where now $0.00 escape taxes the first year of ownership.

Enactment of a gasoline tax of two cents on each gallon of gasoline used in motor vehicles on highways. This tax is estimated to produce $2,500,000. Should these laws be passed by the legislature as proposed by the legislative committee, total revenue of $10,552,000 would be raised, according to estimates $7,164,000 of which would go to the state, $2,013,000 to the counties, and $1,375,000 to the cities.

Effect of the proposed changes if put into effect would be to shift $6,000,000 in taxes from the general property tax payer to the motor vehicle owner.

WANT MORE ROADS
The committee unanimously favored adding 2,000 miles to the state trunk highway system bringing the total to 10,000 miles by 1924. Total cost for maintenance of the state trunk highway system, the committee said, would be paid by the state out of receipts from motor vehicles.

USE AIRPLANES TO FIGHT COTTON PEST

Propellers Of Planes Spread Deadly Poison On Leaves Of Plants

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Memphis, Ten.—War to the death with airplanes and poison gas barages against the southern cotton pests—the boll weevil and the pink boll worm—has entered the first stages of battle down south.

Cotton farmers are already seeing the savings of crops through this fight being made by the army air service.

The cotton pests came into the United States from Mexico a few years ago. Each year the amount of cotton destroyed has grown, until the south, as a whole, reports from a third to two-thirds crops loss after each planting.

MANY EFFORTS FAIL
Hundreds of various plans have been tried out in an effort to head off the weevil and the worm. All have been failures.

Then, from Congressman Wilson of the Fifth Louisiana district, and B. R. Coad, in charge of the Delta laboratory of the Department of Agriculture, came the hunch for an aerial attack.

Calcium arsenate is fed into the draft of the airplane propeller as it flies low over the cotton fields. The tremendous rush of air in the wake of the plane spreads the poison on the cotton plants with much force, and it is driven into the cotton plant leaves.

To the boll worm and the weevil it is a deadly poison and within a few years, if this plan is thoroughly carried out, Coad believes the cotton pest will be wiped out.

COMMUNITY POISONING
The general plan is to have every community secure a plane, through co-operation with the government. Coad points out that there are many army planes which are no longer of any military use. In his report to Washington of the first experiments he said in part:

"With two planes detailed by the air service I believe we have demonstrated that the airplane can be successfully used for insect control."

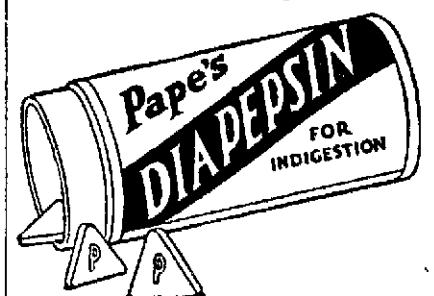

"Results of the poisoning have been so exceptionally good that many districts are ready to undertake community poisoning."

"Community poisoning is much more effective than individual efforts because it practically eliminates the necessity for the late summer application due to weevil migration from unpoisoned cotton."

And in the meantime, much interest is shown in the coming cotton session to be held here. Commissioners from cotton-growing states will represent planters, bankers and credit merchants of the entire south.

FORTY—SIX MILLION DOLLARS

(To Be Exact - $46,641,928.20)

IT is of no little interest at this time when this city is about to become the home of another link in the great chain of J. C. Penney Company department stores to observe the great strides it has made in sales from year to year.

From 1902 to 1910, its progress was comparatively slow. The first year's business, with one store, amounted to $28,898.11. In 1910, there were 14 stores and the gross business had mounted to $662,331.16. Five years later, in 1915, the number of stores had grown to 56 and the sales to $4,825,072.19. In another five years (1920), there were 312 stores, the gross business attaining the colossal figures of $42,822,564.01. Last year (1921), despite the business depression, the gross sales amounted to $46,641,928.20. This year, 59 new stores are being added to the system, making 371 in all, and it is conservatively estimated that the total business will reach $55,000,000.00!

The accompanying table shows the number of stores and the annual business transacted from 1902 to 1921. It is noticed that the growth has been gradual but healthy, denoting the confidence of the public in the Company's business policies.

VANQUISHER OF DR. SUN IS MAN OF IRON WILL

General Chiang-Ming Represents Highest Intellectual Chinese Type

Canton—General Chen Chun-Ming who has been in commandant of the South China by the overthrow of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, is a man of iron will and a determined character. This at least is the impression gained by the Associated Press correspondent who visited him at his headquarters in Weichow, Kwangtung Province, and it seems to be born out by the rapidity with which he has advanced to his all powerful position as the "man of the hour" in the troubled area extending in all directions from the seat of his government.

In appearance General Chun-Ming represents the highest type of Chinese intellectual. His head is large, well shaped and thick with character. His eyes are deep-set and intelligent. The forehead is broad and high, the nose somewhat longer and less broad than is usual among the Chinese; the eyes look the pronounced Oriental slant; the mouth is large and the chin square and determined. Just at present General Chun-Ming is wearing a mustache closely cropped over the upper lip but long and drooping at the points. His head is closely shaved with the exception of a tuft like patch of hair on the top, recalling the wig that was abolished throughout China a decade ago.

His height is above the average of his countrymen. His movements are simple and suggest a considerable physical strength. He invariably dresses in the silk robes which are the accepted court attire of the country despite the fact that they have been discarded in favor of European styles by many of the more enlightened classes of the Empire.

For his headquarters office and residence General Chun-Ming has taken a beautiful little cottage that stands alone on a tree-covered island in the middle of one of the picturesque lakes for which Kwangtung is famous. From this isolated position he is able to avoid many audiences that could not be sidestepped without some excuse. He has a more accessible place. He has a small boat moored off the little island. The boat is equipped with a telephone and before a visitor is permitted to land, the General must have his willingness to receive him. If the caller is welcome by telephone in a small room which is reached by a small boat which is pulled to the island by an aged boatman.

If the visitor is a representative of the press he has had his trial for nothing. General Chun-Ming refuses to say a word for publication or otherwise. He simply states he is out of politics for the present, that he is very busy with the movement of his troops and that he will return to Canton and serve the country as a loyal patriot when the proper time comes.

It is understood, however, that he regards the movements of Dr. Sun Yat Sen in Guangxi as "bluff" or more likely of a strategic nature to prepare his army for an attack in northwest part of the province. There also is strong belief among those in close touch with the situation in the north that an understanding exists between General Chun-Ming and Marshal Wu Pei Fu, the northern border leader, which practice assures the position of both unless unforeseen strength develops among Sun's forces.

QUIT FEEDING KIDDIES BECAUSE OF BANDITS

Kiev—Efforts to feed the children of Chirgin, southeast of Kiev, have been abandoned by the American Relief Administration because of the continued activity of bandits. Chirgin, village 30 miles from the railroad, is situated in a wild country which for years has been infested by robber bands. Government officials would not give guarantees for the safety of the A. R. A. warehouses, so finally endeavors to establish food kitchens in the Chirgin district were given up.

Stockings Not To Be As Conspicuous This Winter

Stockings like short skirts have had their day of extreme vogue. They are going to be less conspicuous this winter and really just as good looking. Instead of contrasting and varied colors, the stockings will match the frock or sports outfit as much as possible. Sports stockings will be mostly of silk and wool combinations. The finer qualities in the new camel's hair, snake skin and black. Some ribbed wool stockings will be sold for hiking and the regular outdoor sports but few will be seen for general wear. Fine, smooth silk here will be most popular for dress wear with an occasional drawn cloth of a simple design.

75,000,000 MEN UNDER ARMS WHEN BIG WAR WAS ON

Germany's Total Mobilization Alone Was 13,250,000, Says Report

Berlin—Seventy-five million men were mobilized throughout the world during the late war, according to official statistics published here. Twenty million were under arms at the close of hostilities.

Germany's total mobilization is given as 13,250,000 of which 5,000,000 still were engaged at the end of the fighting. At the height of its expansion at the beginning of the western offensive March 31, 1918, these figures state the German army totaled 3,500,000 enlisted personnel and 140,000 officers on the western front besides 160,000 enlisted men and 3,000 officers in recruit depots. These fighters were distributed among 140 infantry divisions and two offensive cavalry divisions. They were equipped with 22,215 light and 27,143 heavy machine-guns, 8,545 field howitzers, 5,652 field rifles, 3,155 light howitzers, 3,053 guns for heavy firing at high elevations, 1,747 guns for heavy fire at low elevations and 1,137 aerial guns.

Horses to the number of 744,563 were "mustered" into the military service of the Fatherland.

Piles

Can't Be Cured from the Outside. External treatments seldom cure piles. Nor do surgical operations. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins (hazy). The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it. J. S. Leonard, M. D. a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1900, cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is under the druggists' scrutiny, harmless, faint, easy to take, and always be found at Schlitz Bros. Co. who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

RECOGNITION OF SOUTH CHINA IS ASKED BY LEADER

Former Chinese Minister To Washington Tells of Situation in China

By Associated Press

Canton, South China—The former Chinese Minister at Washington, Wu Tingfang, advised the correspondent of the Associated Press and set forth the reasons why he believed the powers should recognize South China. He presented a long interview in which he explained also the vital differences between Sun Yat Sen and Chen Chung-Ming, and dwelt upon China's financial difficulties.

Dr. Wu, who is now the civil governor of Kwangtung province under the Southern government, received the correspondent in his Canton office. He answered every question asked him with great care, and was interested in seeing that his answer was correctly transcribed.

"For nearly five years South China has been practically independent, but for about two years we have been existing as the Republic of China," Dr. Wu said. "During all this time we have been running our government without assistance from the outside world, and the outside world is not going to help us until we gain some form of recognition."

WANTS LOANS

"How are we going to build up a modern government without being able to contract loans and without being able to make treaties? In other words, without recognition by the other governments in the world? We are so handicapped that we are almost powerless, and if we continue to sit and wait we will be waiting until doomsday. We must force the powers to recognize us. As soon as they do this civil war will stop, and the people of Kwangtung and South China will set up a model government."

"At present we are in reality a de facto government," Dr. Wu continued. "For months this government has been functioning perfectly. During all this time we have been dealing with other governments, although unofficially. I am addressed as Governor by the foreign officials of other governments in this part of China."

We are constantly dealing, unofficially with consular and other officials of foreign countries as though we were a permanent government. After the overthrow of the Manchu Dynasty the newly established government existed for only 13 months before it was recognized. Much longer than this have we been proving ourselves able to run a stable government, but due to the continuous counter efforts of the Peking government, we are still unrecognized.

Our government represents not a few thousands of people, but many millions. Other governments in the world which have not existed as long as ours, and which do not represent so many people, have been recognized by the powers. I might also add that most of the overseas Chinese favor the Southern government. But because of propaganda not favorable to our case the foreign powers pay little attention to us. So you see we are forced to fight for our existence."

BAPTISTS WANT EVERY CHURCH REPRESENTED

Elaborate arrangements are being made for the annual convention of Wisconsin Baptists at Oshkosh Oct. 9 to 13. A representative from every church in the state is the slogan. A men's banquet on Tuesday and a women's banquet on Thursday will be special events.

Among the principal speakers will be Dr. W. E. Chalmers of Philadelphia, who is at the head of the publication society. His subject will be "Baptist Sunday School Strategy." Mrs. Clayton D. Eulette of the Woman's Foreign Mission society will give several addresses at the general sessions and at the women's banquet.

Another notable feature will be the appearance of Dr. H. F. Stilwell, superintendent of evangelism of the Home Mission society who is to discuss "Evangelism—A Re-Study."

The chances of an oak tree being struck by lightning are 57 times greater than those of a birch. Brass buttons were introduced in England in the latter part of the seventeenth century.

THE STAGE

STAR'S SURPRISE IS A BOOMERANG

In the course of the photographing of "Beauty's Worth," a Sophie Kerr story starring Marion Davies, Robert G. Vignola, the director, had a birthday anniversary. Miss Davies decided that a party should be given him and made the arrangements at a well-known hotel.

The star invited the director, his assistant, the cameraman, Forest Stanley, her leading man, and several other members of her company. She had a big birthday cake baked with the appropriate number of candles upon it. Before the dinner began Miss Davies waited to wait until the meal had started, then switch off the lights in the private room, take the centerpiece off the table, light the candles on the cake, place it on the table and thus surprise Mr. Vignola.

When the dinner was under way Miss Davies herself got the surprise. Instead of finding the lights going off, the star noted that even more were lighted. A circular section had been cut out of the cake and the candles were out but had obviously been burning. The waiter's intentions had been good but he unfortunately reversed Miss Davies' instructions.

"Beauty's Worth," a Cosmopolitan Paramount picture at Fischer's Appleton today and tomorrow. The story is told by Sophie Kerr and the scenario by Luther Reed.

EGYPT USES MACHINES TO MAKE CIGARETTES

By Associated Press
Alexandria, Egypt—Egypt has finally come to the introduction of modern machinery for the making of cigarettes, and as a result the industry is being revolutionized.

Formerly a thousand cigarettes rolled by hand involved a labor cost of $1.00; now the same number is being produced by machine for eight cents. As a result the number of cigarette hand rollers has been reduced from 1519 to 318, and there is much dissatisfaction among them. The Labor Conciliation Board has taken the matter in hand and hopes to compose the difficulty.

JOHN D. GIVES SCHOOL OF MEDICINE TO LONDON

London—Through the generosity of John D. Rockefeller, London is soon to have one of the finest medical schools in the world. Work has already begun or the first part of the building program, on which more than $1,000,000 is to be spent. This includes provision for a new nurses home for the University College Hospital, an obstetric building of six stories, and an enlargement of the medical school.

Houses in University Street and Huntley Street are shortly to be pulled down in order to make room for this large scheme. Later an open-air ward for septic cases and further research laboratories are to be built. The project will reach completion some time in 1925.

MASTER SLEUTH DISGUISES WAY TO BANDIT CAMP

Detective McCarthy's Stunt Sounds a Lot Like Sherlock Holmes Stuff

By Edward M. Thierry
Special to The Post-Crescent.
New York—Three manacled men, identified as the master crooks who robbed a mail truck of $2,000,000 in cash and securities last October, were perched on the young man who walked with them on their way to jail.
"Pity we didn't croak you when we had the chance," said the first.
"As we planned to do," added the second.
And said the third, bitterly, "We'd have given you the whole $500,000 rather than be pinched."
So ended the game in which the young man, Gordon T. McCarthy, played a lone and desperate hand.
Sitting with him in the game were Death and Graft, the one to be feared the other avoided. And he won, escaping both. He started after a gang of express thieves, and wound up by making a record-breaking capture of mail robbers.

"HUMAN BLOODHOUND"
Winning, he gets the fame of a second Sherlock Holmes—as the "human bloodhound" who for seven months followed tiny clues and for a time lived and ate and drank and revelled with his quarry in the disguise of a crook.

He turned down a chance for a half million dollar bribe—but he stands to win $65,000 or more in rewards.

Of this the government pays $5000 each for the capture of Gerald Chapman, Charles Loeber and George Anderson alias Bryce, alias "the Count." And insurance companies pay 10 per cent for the $500,000 of the $2,000,000 loot already recovered.

McCarthy special agent of the American Railway Express Company smiled at the threat of death and the bribe offer. He said:

"You fellows might have known you may rob a bank and go free. You may even rob the government and get away with it—but when you rob the express company you'd never let us on you during your lifetime."

SCOTLAND YARD TRAINING

Only 30 years old with curly hair a tight mouth—and nerve—McCarthy learned the tricks of the trade with Scotland Yard detectives in London where he went after having served with the American army in France. Later he was assigned to the railway express secret service in Buffalo.

"I learned not to talk clues but to follow them and never to fit evidence into clues," he said.

His mentor was Robert E. M. Cowie, vice president of the American Railway Express Company, 40 years in charge of the secret service.

"I kept in touch with Mr. Cowie constantly while I was running down this gang," said McCarthy.

POSES AS THIEF

"I talked the lingo of thieves and was Jimmy the Safeblower" from the West. I'd sneak away in taxicabs and report to Mr. Cowie but they didn't suspect until the last minute.

"It cost thousands to live with those fellows and gain their confidence. Automobiles, clothes, cabaret parties and liquor cost plenty. We'd have parties at roadhouses and cabarets and throw $10 bills to the dancing girls. Drinks at $1.25 each were trifles."

A single traveler's check cashed in a New York department store was the first clue. But McCarthy traveled thousands of miles beginning last Christmas before he landed his men. Then, to his surprise, he found they not only had the Niagara Falls loot but that of the $2,000,000 New York holdup as well.

AMERICAN DRAMA IS CROWDED OFF STAGE BY IMPORTS

New York Theatrical Managers Are Scouring Europe for New Plays

By John O'Donnell
New York—The sweltering interlude between the dramatic seasons has given opportunity for the poking of several gaping holes into that distended balloon known as the American dramatic movement.

After a decade of dramatic work shops, little theaters and women's club lectures, together with enthusiastic sweating and striving by little groups of serious thinkers, the condition of the great American drama is rather hopeless.

Three significant events have taken place recently.

First is the closing of the Provincetown Players Theater in Greenwich Village and the Neighborhood Playhouse in Grand street because of their failure to secure plays worth producing.

PIN HOPES TO 1923
Both of these pioneers in the field of developing native talent under the favorable condition of box office contempt are leaving their theaters dark with pious hope that their dramatists will spend a year in study and contemplation and return in 1923 with something worth while.

The second announcement is that of the Theater Guild's plans for next season. No American plays are included in its announced program although there was a genuine eagerness on the part of the organization to produce one.

The third is the unparalleled activity of Broadway producers in competing for rights to European plays.

SCOUR EUROPE FOR PLAYS
Every New York manager of any prominence is scouring England, France and Germany for plays which will relieve next season of the curse of mediocrity which reduced last season to a broad expanse of dullness relieved by only a few such isolated peaks as O'Neill's "Anna Christie" and "The Hairy Ape" and Andrieff's "He Who Gets Slapped."

The extent to which managers are buying in the European market is shown by A. H. Woods who has returned with the rights to 40 plays.

Germany, according to latest reports, is showing the greatest dramatic activity at present and many Berlin plays are now in process of translation.

The English plays awaited with interest are St. John Ervine's "The Ship," Dunsany's "If," Maugham's "East of Suez," Galsworthy's "Lovell," Clemence Dane's "Will Shakespeare," and the Shaw play to be given by the Theater Guild which has recently secured American rights to all of this dramatist's future plays.

CHURCH REMOVES BAN ON COUNT TOLSTOI

Moscow—The anathema of excommunication, pronounced more than 20 years ago by the Russian orthodox church against the famous Russian author, has been cancelled by the recent all Russian church convocation held at Moscow to reform and simplify the orthodox worship.

Count Tolstoy was thus posthumously restored to good standing in the church. The anathema was pronounced because Tolstoy's works were considered as attacks upon the church.

ACCIDENTS KILL MANY CHILDREN EVERY SUMMER

Reports Show That About 5,000 Are Killed and 100,000 Injured Each Year

New York—Judging from reliable statistics of previous years, approximately 5,000 children will be killed and 100,000 more injured in accidents during the summer vacation period throughout the United States unless parents and other guardians give greater attention this summer to the safety of their charges.

This warning comes from the Safety Institute of America, with headquarters in this city.

Before July 1 the Institute points out something like 20,000,000 children will be thrown on their own devices for amusement by the closing of public and private schools.

The accident hazards confronting children throughout the year as a whole will then be multiplied many times by longer hours of play by the summer increase in automobile traffic and by the lapse of school room discipline.

The principal causes of accidental death among children the Institute says are fire, drowning and the automobile.

The child of about seven years of age is in the greatest danger of becoming the victim of a fatal accident because that seems to be the age at which mothers begin to permit children to take care of themselves.

In an effort to stem the usual summer tide of violent deaths among young people the Institute has issued a list of Vacation Dos and Don'ts with the recommendation that teachers, parents, and all other persons who have the opportunity to reach large groups of children, pass them on to the children. The list follows:

Swim all you can this summer, but never on a full stomach, or if over heated or extremely tired.

Learn how to rescue drowning persons but never pretend yourself to be drowning you may really need help some day and not get it.

Learn to paddle your own canoe, but never rock the boat to scare the other fellow, this has caused the death of thousands of boys and girls.

Fly kites, but don't use copper wire instead of twine, score of boys have been electrocuted when their kite came in contact with electric wires, also don't climb telegraph poles to recover entangled kites.

Hike out into the country, but if you go for more than one day carry a first aid kit with you, also learn to recognize poison ivy and then stay away from it, drink a lot of water but

CUBA GIVES THOUGHT TO PRISON REFORMS

Havana, Cuba—Productive work for convicts in state prisons with the greater percentage of the profit from their labor going to the families of their victims is among the novel reforms proposed by Manuel Socorro, consulting attorney for the department of government to whom the task of drafting the reforms has been delegated. He also proposed to separate first offense and youthful prisoners from the long term and habitual classes.

DROUGHT MENACES CROPS

Washington — Drought conditions were reported to be threatening serious damage to crops in many parts of the United States not only affecting growing crops but slowing fall seeding.

first make sure that its source is clean.

Don't use the streets for play if there is a vacant lot, a clean alley or a playground nearby. If you must use streets for playgrounds pick a street that has no streetcar tracks or heavy automobile traffic.

Don't be a tax-walker in the city cross streets at regular crossings, never in the middle of the block, when walking on country roads keep on the left instead of the right hand side of the road so that you can see approaching vehicles.

Finally remember that June is a particularly dangerous month in which to take chances, the other dangerous months are July, August, September, April, November, March, May, December, October, August and February.

DOCTOR BELIEVES RADIO WILL HELP MAKE DEAF HEAR

Deaf Man of 50 Intensified Sound Enough To Enable Him to Hear

London—Wireless, with all the manifold benefits already to its credit may enable the deaf to hear, thinks a writer in the current number of the Medical Press. If recent experiments with wireless telephony come up to expectation, he declares, then there is little need for the deaf to give up hope for by means of "thermionic" valves the very deaf have been enabled to hear.

The author records the case of a man of 50 who had been deaf for many years so deaf that he could only hear the shouted voice. Nevertheless he experimented with wireless telephony. It occurred to him that by increasing the number of thermionic valves in his receiver he might thereby raise the sound to a degree of intensity to be heard easily. This he did working up gradually until he had five thermionic valves in his apparatus with the result that he can now hear his friends in Paris more plainly than he can a person sitting in the room beside him. Also his hearing for the ordinary voice has become more acute.

The Marconi Company's experts are using a valve similar to the thermionic valve on their "bonaphone" an instrument for imparting sounds to the brain by means of the bones of the cranium. It has enabled a large number of persons to hear who hitherto were deaf.

Thought has been given in England to a universal language for international radio communication but no definite conclusions yet have been reached.

Questioned on this subject Godfrey Isaacs, head of the Marconi Wireless system said he did not think Esperanto would do. "But at the same time," he added, "we are keeping in view in connection with the scheme now under consideration for the establishment of wireless broadcasting stations the possibility of teaching languages by wireless telephony. I think this will be a highly important part of the educational action of our broad casting programs. One foresees the engagement of eminent professors of languages for the purpose of wireless tuition."

"CAN'T-B-BEAT"

The Flour For Good Bakers

When you wish to make exceptionally good bread — when you are particular about your baking—that's the time to use "Can't-B-Beat." The quality of the flour that you use in baking, is so important, that if it is of inferior quality, it often spoils everything that is baked from it.

The Finest Bread

The finest bread, rolls, cakes, etc. can be made from "Can't-B-Beat" Flour. The bread entered in the "$100 Prize Contest," was as fine as any bread that has ever been made.

Order a sack of "Can't-B-Beat", bake with it a few times, and then compare its results with the results you obtain from your favorite flour. Four hundred good bread bakers, who entered the "Bread Baking Contest", have proven for themselves, the true quality of "Can't-B-Beat" flour. No matter what you intend to bake you'll find that, for that purpose, "Can't-B-Beat" is in every respect, everything that its name implies.

"Ah," said Lanyard—ah—and looked from face to face.

"Do understand I am to consider myself your prisoner."

"Oh, dear, no!" said Captain Monk. Inexpressibly pained by such crudity. Consider favorably an invitation to be our honored guest on the voyage to New York.

Lanyard thought the matter over a little.

"Obviously it would seem, you have not gone to all this trouble—lured me aboard this yacht—merely to amuse yourselves at my expense and then knock me on the head."

"Absurd!" Liane declared indignantly. "As if I would permit such a thing who owe you so much!" "Or look at it this way, monsieur," Monk put in with a courtly gesture. "When one has an adversary whom one respects one wisely prefers to have him where one can watch him."

"More than that," said Liane with her most killing glance for Lanyard. "A dear friend."

But Lanyard was not to be put off by fair words and flattery.

"No," he said gravely, "but there is some deeper motive."

He sought Phinuit's eyes and Phinuit unexpectedly gave him an open faced return.

"There is," he stated frankly.

"Then why not tell me?"

"All in good time."

With characteristic abruptness Liane Delorme announced that she was sleepy. It had been for her a most fatiguing day. Captain Monk rang for the stewardess and called Lanyard to her door. Lanyard got up with Phinuit to bow her out but instead of following her suit helped himself to a long whisky and soda.

"I'm afraid you've got a tendency to overestimate the glibness of people in general," remarked Phinuit. "Why this funny story of yours about wanting to get hold of the Montalais' foot simply to slip it back to its owner?"

Lanyard felt a spasm of anger constrict his throat. Nevertheless his courteous smile persisted.

"I presume, Captain Monk, it's not too late to send a note assuring posted. I don't in the least mind your reading it."

Monk shrugged his brows, found paper, even went so far as to dip the pen for Lanyard.

Lanyard wrote:

"Dear Madame de Montalais:

"I have not forgotten my promise, but my days have been full since I left the chateau. And even now I must be brief within an hour I sail for America. Within a fortnight you may look for telegraphic advices from me, stating that your jewels are in my possession and when I hope to be able to restore them to you."

"Believe me, dear madame, devotedly your servant, 'Michael Lanyard'."

Monk read and in silence passed this communication over to Phinuit, while Lanyard addressed the envelope.

"Quite in order," was Phinuit's verdict, accompanied by a yawn.

Lanyard folded the note, sealed it in the envelope, and affixed a stamp supplied by Monk, who meanwhile rang for a steward and post it at once," he told the man who answered his summons.

"But seriously, Lanyard," Phinuit protested with a pained expression. "We value your respect too much to let you go on thinking we have fallen for that hokum. We know you steered a direct course from London for the Chateau de Montalais."

"Monsieur sees too clearly."

"What were you up to that night?" Phinuit asked about the chateau at two in the morning?

"But this is positively uncanny! Monsieur knows everything."

"Why shouldn't I know about that?" Vanity rang in Phinuit's self-conscious chuckle. "Who'd you think laid you out that night?"

"Monsieur is not telling me—"

"I guess I owe you an apology," Phinuit admitted. Hope I didn't jar you too much."

CHAPTER XIX
The Face in the Dark

In the early days of the voyage Lanyard felt confident of outwitting his companions, but was unable to evolve a satisfactory plan to secure the jewels.

Not that he made the mistake of despising these two social malcontents, Phinuit and Jules, that rogue adventurer Monk, that grasping courtesan, Liane Delorme.

Lanyard accounted that quartet uncommonly clever, resourceful, audacious, unscrupulous, and potentially ruthless, utterly callous to compunc-tions when their interests were jeopardized.

But it was inconceivable that he should fail to outwit and frustrate them, who had the love and faith of Eve de Montalais to honor, cherish and requite.

Trying to put himself in Liane's place, Lanyard believed that he would never have neglected the opportunity to steal away from Paris while he slept and leave him to gnaw his nails in the mortification of defeat. Why she had not done so, why she had permitted Monk and Phinuit to play their comedy of offering him the jewels, passed understanding.

But Lanyard felt assured Liane would not keep him waiting long for enlightenment as to her intentions.

Lanyard spent his hours studying the subtle and particularly the chief engineer, Mr. Mussey, a heavy drinker, untidy about his person and exacting about his engine room, a veteran of his trade and—it was said—an ancient crony of Monk's.

One night at dinner Liane Delorme appeared in a sumptuous toilette that would have made its mark on the beach of Deauville.

The woman looked years younger than when Lanyard had last seen her. Nobody would ever have believed her a day older than twenty-five, no one that is to say, who had not watched youth ebb from her face as Lanyard had when he told her of the death of de Lorgnes.

Later that night on deck, pressure of a hand upon his own roused Lanyard to discover that Liane Delorme had seated herself beside him.

"I must have been dreaming," he said, apologetic. "You startled me."

The woman spoke in quiet accents and let her hand linger upon his wrist, a sinister reminder of the warm, living presence.

"It is that one grows bored, eh, cher ami?"

"Perhaps, Liane."

Or perhaps that one's thoughts are constantly at the Chateau de Montalais?

It amuses you then, to shoot arrows into the air?"

But naturally, I seek the reason when I see you distrust and am conscious of your neglect."

I think it is for me to complain of that? Always you are with your two companions, always I am alone."

Do you imagine for an instant that I class you with such riffraff?"

And who am I that you should regard me in higher rating than any other man?"

You should know I do," the woman breathed, so low he barely caught her words.

Think what I owe to you, Michael, and then consider this, that of all men whom I have known you alone have never asked for love."

He gave a quiet laugh. "There is too much humility in my heart."

No," she said in a dull voice, "but you despise me. Do you deny it?" She shifted impatiently in her chair.

"I cannot hope to escape my fate."

"But one imagines nobody can escape his fate."

Men such as you rare as you are, know how to cheat destiny, but women never. It is my fate to have learned too late to love you, Michael."

"Ah, Liane, Liane!"

"But you hold me in too much contempt to be willing to recognize the truth."

"On the contrary, I admire you extremely. I think you are an incomparable actress."

"You see?" She offered a despairing gesture to the stars. "It is not true what I say? I lay bare my heart to him, and he tells me that I act?"

"But my dear girl! surely you do not expect me to think otherwise?"

"I was a fool to expect anything from you," she returned bitterly. "You know too much about me."

Divided between annoyance and distaste, he was silent. And all at once she threw herself half across the ruined arms of their chairs, catching his shoulders with her hands, so that her half-clothed body rested on his bosom and its scented warmth assailed his senses with the seduction whose power she knew so well.

Doctor Cures Another

One morning Mrs. Cottontail telephoned Dr. Snuffles, the fairyman doctor, when Nancy and Nick were helping.

"I wish you'd stop in and see Cutie," she begged. "He's dreadfully sick and can't go to school."

So Dr. Snuffles hurried right over without eating the nice breakfast Nancy had fixed for him.

There lay Cutie, rolling over and over, and moaning and groaning. Dr. Snuffles looked at Cutie's tongue. Then he felt Cutie's pulse and put a big thermometer into his mouth. "Yes," said he gravely with a queer look at Cutie. "He's dreadfully sick. You'll have to pull down all the blinds and close all the doors and leave him quite by himself."

"He must not see anybody at all! And above everything else he mustn't have a single thing to eat. Not a thing!"

Cutie opened one eye and then the other and looked at the doctor. "Couldn't I have just a little nibble of fresh lettuce or a little pea-soup?" he asked in a weak voice.

"Not a thing!" declared the doctor, shaking a large bottle. "And see to it, please, Mr. Cottontail, that he gets a large spoonful of this bitter medicine every half hour, mixed with a little mustard and red pepper. He must stay in bed two weeks."

"C-can't I have anything to eat, or read a book, or see my friends, or ride ships down the bed clothes, or play tin-soldier or anything?"

"No, sure!"

Suddenly Cutie sprang out of bed. "Mom, I'm better!" he declared. "I think I'll go to school!"

LOOK TO MOHAMMEDANS FOR NEWEST STYLES

BY MARIAN HALE

Like good Mohammedans, we are all looking toward the East for sartorial as well as political developments.

The political situation may fill us with apprehension, but the styles give us joy. The Turkish influence is one of the most popular ones that has reached us, via Paris for many a day. Harem beauties learned long ago how to frame the face becomingly and have been little influenced by changing styles. They have become such artists with the veil that though custom no longer requires them to wear it on all occasions they cling to it from sheer coquetry.

They still wear it draped about the face and their chin veil has been stolen by Parisian designers to be one of the season's most popular styles.

Of black lace, it gives a grace and beauty to the simplest hat and is

TURKISH CHAPEAU (RIGHT)
CHIN VEIL (BELOW) NOVELTY

more effective than any chin strap known in keeping the double chin out of evidence.

A hat with a decidedly Moslem ancestry is shown beside the veil. It's very oddity makes it charming, framing the face as it does with an entirely new line. Gorgeous Turkish embroidery is the only trimming.

The spider and fly comb is Spanish rather than Turkish, but it belongs with the season's novelties in head dress.

A very black and well-nourished looking spider, mounted on a yellow tortoise shell comb, makes his invitation much more inviting because of its advantageous position in the locks of a lovely woman.

Paris has decreed that the unconventional shall lead. Now is the time for every original citizen to come to the aid of his country and produce novelties in dress.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

In arranging the wedding guest the Dutch try always to place an unmarried man or woman between a married couple at the wedding feast.

This is because of an old superstition that this will bring about the wedding of the unmarried one during the year.

The women are said to be even more favorable if the seating arrangement is inadvertent, rather than planned.

Cinderella Sally

Chapter 3 — Insult Causes Worm to Turn

By Zoe Beckley

SYNOPSIS

They called her "Cinders"—the woe-begone little waif from the orphan asylum who did the kitchen work in the home of the newly rich MRS. STANLEY. Because they wouldn't use her real name, SALLY DAWSON, the girl took offense and then they called her "impudent" and "uppity."

Then entered the son of the house, the good natured boy who sympathized with the weeping girl. "I'll talk to mother. What's it all about anyhow?" And then he and the girl heard the mother's icy insult. "My son is not interested in kitchen scullions."

GO ON WITH THE STORY

The tone and the insult from Mrs. Stanley dropped like a bomb on the two in the hall below. Kitchen scullions!

"Mother!" the young man cried in shocked protest.

Sally herself seemed overborne for the moment. Her real reaction came deliberately. She moved to the stairway and looked upward as the mistress of the house began to descend in the girl's face was a dignified not unimpressive.

"I thank you for that word, Mrs. Stanley. I shall remember it—and I think you will too."

Sally stood there without taking her eyes off her mistress as though stamping a resolution into her will. Angry as the lady Stanley was, as she faced the small Sally she looked the less notable of the two.

"Harry," she said, "I am astonished that you feel called upon to meddle in kitchen affairs. Please keep out of this."

The young man flushed and turned to Sally.

"I'm sorry," he said simply. "Sorry for—all of this if mother will not ask your pardon, Sally, I will for give you please."

His manner was genuine to the point of entreaty.

Sally smiled at him, a surprisingly radiant and charming smile. "There's nothing to forgive YOU for."

The personalness of the speech left him a little uncomfortable, a bit mixed in the emotions. His mother's rage was pure and unequivocal. "Pack your things this instant!" she cried venomously, "and never let me see your face again!"

Sally smiled with one side of her mouth.

"You sha'n't," she answered in a tone that seemed very low in contrast to her mistress' storming. "—until you ask me to visit you, Mrs. Stanley."

Sally left the hall with at least an affection of serenity. It crossed

Eat More Vegetables In Proportion To Meat

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH

There is a strong tendency to eat too much meat and eggs in proportion to vegetables and fruits.

Professor Sherman of Columbia University has said that in general it is well to allow at least as much money for the purchase of vegetables, fruits and milk as for the purchase of meats, fish and eggs.

Why? Let us consider fruits especially. Fruits supply a much needed acid substance in the digestive tract.

Fruits have a laxative tendency and keep the system in a good condition. Fruits supply flavor which is natural, also sugar which is natural sugar. They give, when cooked variety in the menu and in a raw state are pleasing to the eye.

Many housekeepers consider fruit expensive, and if it is an added item to an already heavy meal it is expensive.

But when we have learned what the body needs most and have given those foods which supply it we can cut out many of the supposed necessary foods.

The family will be better satisfied, and better health secured as a much lower price.

TRAIN YOURSELF TO EAT IT

There is great need of training children to enjoy the product of the ground and not to be dependent on meat as the past generations have been.

There is not and will not be sufficient meat for all but there are unlimited possibilities in vegetable and fruit raising.

Raw fruits are not always as easily digested as when cooked and a raw banana, for instance, ought never be given to a young child.

Of course, citrus fruits are an exception and usually are eaten without cooking.

LIGHTENS WORK

Another good reason for serving fruits is that it makes the work of the housekeeper much lighter.

French women do not make heavy desserts, but give cooked fruit with cake or a sweet cracker. Or they

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You know it is more important to choose your guests wisely for a small dinner than for a large one.

When entertaining only six or eight guests the conversation must be general and the guests, if they are not already friends, should at least have congenial tastes.

To include two persons at a small dinner who are known to be unfriendly to each other is decidedly rude to both.

BLIND MAN IS ELECTED TO HIGH STATE OFFICE

Atlanta, Ga.—Georgia has elected a blind man to its public service commission. This adds another to the list of physically handicapped citizens who have been elevated to high political positions by the voters of this state.

Walter McDonald, blind, won the commission election. He has long been one of Augusta's most brilliant lawyers.

Paul Donehoo, blind since birth has been coroner of Georgia county for years. Inspired by McDonald's success, Donehoo has announced his intention of running for attorney general.

In addition to these men, William D. Upshaw was re-elected congressman this fall, despite the fact that he has been forced to use crutches for years.

A harsh bugle note did sound just behind her. With a start she turned to see Harry Stanley zipping along in his little imported runabout.

With "Crush Carroll" as its battle cry Lawrence eleven will begin its real fight for the Little Five and Mid-western conference championships Saturday when it meets Coach Bell's gridders from Waikesh at Lawrence field. From the kickoff at 2:15 until the whistle blows at the end of the last quarter the struggle between the two teams is expected to be bitter.

From the kickoff at 2:15 until the whistle blows at the end of the last quarter the struggle between the two teams is expected to be bitter.

CARROLL IS STRONG

Carroll is coming here confident as the result of the overwhelming defeat administered last Friday to Milton. Coach Bell's men pounced through the Miltonians by using plays made famous by Centre college and played up a score of 40 while the Milton pugskin chasers were forced off field with a large zero to their credit. Not only did the Waikeshans plunge through the line but also put up a stone wall defense.

However Coach H. D. McChesney and his eleven are ready for a stiff battle. And the way of Carroll is not entirely new to the Blue and White. On several other occasions the local collegians have forced the Carroll men to howl before them.

SCRIMMAGE AGAINST FROSH

Coach McChesney and Buck sent the college eleven against Coach Ashe's frosh team with the latter using plays that Carroll is fond of. The college team broke up one play after another and gained on the frosh at will. A fake end run and a number of forward passes will be applied by Carroll and Coach McChesney will counteract with passes but his main plan of action will be straight football.

The scrimmage Thursday night did not only show that the Blue and White to a big extent have mastered the probable Carroll offense but it also brought to light the work of two men.

STOLL HITS OPPONENTS

Still in a new acquisition on the McChesney machine who was switched from half to tackle performed in a manner that promised another star on the Lawrence field before the first season is over. The big fellow literally smashed all opposition offered in his direction by the freshmen. Although Stoll was not given a place in the lineup it is quite probable that he will be used either in the back field or in the line should the occasion demand. The newcomer is in perfect condition as yet.

Another outstanding feature of the scrimmage Thursday was the work of Lyman Paul, playing half on the frosh team. Lyman is a mite compared to some of the first string men but the youngster tackled the big fellows hard and also made gains for his team. Jake Zureman, 1921 letter of the Appleton high school, captained the frosh from quarter.

KIESLING IS HURT

Kiesling was hurt Thursday evening and was forced to quit the scrimmage work. He injured his knee and cut his chin. It is uncertain whether he will be able to play Saturday.

Coach McChesney announced that Thursday night's performance completed scrimmage work for the week. Friday evening the Blue and White pugskin chasers were scheduled to go through a light workout with some attention to signals.

Quarterback Starr will probably bear the most attention from the Blue and White players. The Carroll quarter got three of the touchdowns against Milton. Bert Snyder and Lundsvick also got off.

INTERLAKE CLUB WILL HOLD BANQUET MONDAY

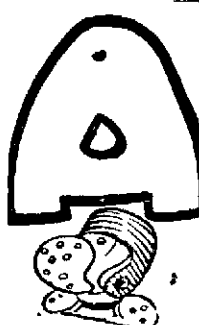

The annual banquet of the Interlake Athletic Association will be held Monday evening in Hotel Appleton to discuss plans for the coming season and review past activities. The dinner is to be served at 7 o'clock. An informal program will be presented.

The Interlakes entered a baseball team in the Outagamie County Baseball league and now they have organized a bowling league. It also is expected that the association will have a basketball team this year.

The British civil service now gets paid six times as much as it did before the war.

KAUKAUNA KEEPS HIGH FOLLOWERS HERE IN SUSPENSE

Practice Thursday Shows Blue And Gold Well—Play Electric City Saturday

APPLETON high school football followers have their fingers crossed while some are chattering about a blizzard foot all because Coach Denney will take his men to Kaukauna Saturday afternoon to meet the Electric City high school squad.

There is every indication of hard battle for the Blue and Gold pugskin chasers. The notes administered by Kaukauna to DePue and Neenah carries a whole lot of meaning to "ridiron" bugs. While Coach Denney has by no means a slow working machine reports from Kaukauna have it that the team there is not only fast but husky as well. The line is reported to average 155 pounds.

As final finishing touches Coach Denney will have his men go through light spurt practice Friday night with emphasis to individual faults.

Thursday's night scrimmage and practice showed up the Appleton gridders in fairly good shape. With few exceptions all passes were completed while Bonni seldom missed the drop and place kicks.

There will be few changes in the lineup against Kaukauna Saturday. Bonni will be at center. Kamps and Fisher guards. Stark and Morris tackles. Scousher and Ashman ends. Mils, quarterback. Gerou and Verwegen, halfbacks. Capri, Rose at fullback. Probable alternating at back with Tarnert at half and full back.

CUBS BEAT SOX, EVEN CITY SERIES

First Contest Nationals Have Won From A. L. Since 1915

Chicago — The Chicago Nationals opened up the series for the championship with the American league rivals on Thursday by winning a one sided game 10 to 3. It was the first game the Nationals had won since 1915 the summer organization having won thirteen straight games.

Eddie Mulhearn, hero of Wednesday's game had an erratic day and the White Sox defense cracked after the clubs had battled on even terms. After Mulhearn's slips the Cubs launched a heavy bombardment against Ted Blackhawk and drove him from the box in the seventh inning after which Manager Gleason led out a couple of his young pitchers.

Gleason was hit hard in only two innings and pitched great ball in the other innings.

Johnny Foy, former manager of the Chicago Nationals who has been acting as assistant to Manager Gleason replaced Mulhearn at the last base as given a big hand by the crowd but he had nothing to do.

Zeb Tser, a former member of the White Sox was the hitting star of the Cubs with four hits and a walk in five times up. Friday will be an even game and the scene of hostilities will shift to the White Sox park on Saturday.

Patience Mack, Davenport Parkhouse, Levelette Osborne and O'Farrell.

Whipping posts and stools of re-pearance used to stand in every town in England.

GOT HOMER

EMIL MEUSEL. Here's Emil who skatted the first homer of the world series and gave the Giants three runs in the first inning of Thursday game.

First Hit In Series

THE FIRST HIT IN THE FIRST INNING, WITH THE COUNT TWO TO TWO, HEINIE GROH, GIANTS' THIRD PITCHER, GOT THE FIRST HIT OF THE SERIES. IT WAS A LOW SINGLE TO LEFT FIELD. GROH ROUNDED FIRST BASE, IN THE FAR BACK, AND WAS READY TO MAKE THE THROW TO FIRST THAT GAVE HEINIE A SCRAMBLE TO GET BACK AFTER HE HAD OVER RUN THE BAG.

Fans Crowd On Post-Crescent Kamps Almost Delays Game Field For Reports Of Battle

Post Field—With Heber Pelkey on the firing line and Joe Steele in reserve the second game of the baseball world series started here Thursday afternoon with about 200 persons in the bleachers and a dozen or more in the grandstand on the front porch of Elk club. Don Steinberg, one of the early arrivals, copped the best seat but got discouraged when the Giants got off to their early start and hung on to their lead and he left before the umpires called off the battle.

Pelkey's delivery was pretty good but he lacked steam and it was necessary to provide a new battery for him. The going got to be pretty rough, however, and he retired in favor of Joe Steele who performed in stellar fashion the remainder of the afternoon.

There was some disposition on the part of the dyed in wool fans to postpone starting the game because of the absence of Herman Kamps, without whom no world series game is complete. After a little argument it was decided to go ahead and do the best they could. Herman came in late and then the Yanks tied up the count.

Signs cautioned the fans to keep off the new grass plot between the Post-Crescent and Elk buildings but a lot of them apparently could not read. It probably will be necessary to buy some more grass seed.

The crowd in the bleachers continued to grow as the game progressed until more than 500 were listening to the reports. It didn't make any difference to Mike Pose, the demon telegraph operator how many were listening so long as too many of them didn't talk.

the second inning Walsh singled over short and was forced at second by Bentley, Roome to Berghammer. Royle tied to right. Bishop walked and McAvoy, who won the opening game with a home run with two on, came through in the pinch with a single to right, putting Bentley over. Groves ended the inning by flying to center. The Saints tied the score in the fourth. After Mausel tossed out Haas Ruggert walked. Berghammer fanned. Roome singled to center and then Groves passed Drennon and Gonzales in succession, forcing home a run.

The winning run came over in the fifth on errors by Poley and Bishop. Haas and single by Haas and Berghammer. Official attendance 4711.

CARLETON HAS BAG FULL OF TRICKS

Arrives At Madison For Tilt With Varsity Saturday Afternoon

Madison—With a bag crammed full of tricks the Carleton college football team arrived at Madison where it will meet the University of Wisconsin team Saturday.

There are very few followers of the Carleton team that are talking of victory.

In the final home practice the Carletons Thursday tried out a wide variety of forward passes and other plays intended to puzzle and it was indicated that this style of play would form the bulwark of the Northfielders' attack.

The Wisconsin varsity eleven took its first try against the freshmen first team with disastrous results to the yearlings who were unable to halt the drives of their opponents. Touchdowns from long end runs and forward passes were the order of the day for the regulars. Coach Richards made numerous temporary shifts in his team giving most of his varsity players a chance at the freshmen level. At halfback started for the varsity with several long runs one for 50 yards and a touchdown.

EXPECT FULL STRENGTH
Kicking practice occupied a considerable portion of the session, with Barr and Tebell alternating at tries to put drop and placed kicks between the bars. It looks as though the Badgers would be at full strength on Saturday when they play Carleton in their first game. The few minor injuries to players are not serious enough to keep them out of the game.

few days shooting at Gardner Dam, Wis., near Mountain.

Carl Mory returned Friday morning from Pickeral lake Mountain, Wis., where he bagged his "full limit" of partridges the first day out.

Coach McChesney a most enthusiastic angler, says next to coaching the Blue and White he loves to wield a rod near some quiet stream and enjoy the open.

Another party reported having seen three or four Bob Whites perched upon buildings downtown. Evidently the Bob Whites are on the move for a warmer climate and they just dropped in to visit Appleton friends.

Come on boys let's have your little fishing reports.

Ire Of Fans Because Of Halt Of Game Forces Clubs To Donate Money

Crowd "Mobs" Commissioner Landis, While Umpires Also Get Share Of Attack—Receipts To Go To Charity

New York — Giants and Yankees having attempted to appease thousands of fans who weren't a bit satisfied when the second world series game was called by umpires in the tenth inning in the score tied 3-3, by giving the entire day's receipts to disabled soldiers and charity, returned Friday to the business of settling the championship.

The umpires said it was too dark to play when they called the halt, but there were few fans who agreed with them about the conditions of daylight. It may have been dark, maybe umpire Hildebrand was fooled by Coogan's bluff, which plays queer tricks with its shadows sometimes. Anyway there was quite a difference of opinion in the matter.

WANTED FINISH
Some three or four thousand of the fans could not forget their dissatisfaction. They had watched the Yankees fight a long uphill battle after Irish Meusel's homer into the left field bleachers had counted three runs for the Giants in the first inning and they wanted to see a finish. They couldn't understand why this wish should not be granted them.

They railed at the umpires until the umpires found cover, then, because there was no one else left on which to vent their feelings, they returned to Commissioner Landis, boss of all major league baseball and they said to him many things. Commissioner Landis didn't have anything to do with the calling of the game but he made a nice target for their bombardment of criticism. Having talked themselves out they went home.

WILL NOT KEEP MONEY

The owners of the clubs and the players did not want any body to think the game had been called deliberately, so that they could play another game and take in more money. So, after consultation with Landis, they decided they wouldn't keep one red cent.

And so the third game with the Giants at home again is on Friday. McGraw's men still have the edge, having won the first game and Friday they will play behind "Deacon John" Scott, who displayed some thrilling running during the latter part of the season. Miller Huggins has selected Waite Hoyt the youth who caused the Giants no end of worry in the 1931 series, in an effort to even things.

Ryan and McQuillan are in shape and ready to assist Scott, should the Yankee batters take too kindly to his delivery. Carl Mays, with his sub way style warmed up Thursday when it looked as if Shawkey might not go so well and he is allotted the same job Friday.

Jess Barnes had a lot to encourage him at the very start of Thursday's game, when Meusel's homer gave him three runs but Jess had to be good in those innings to keep the Yanks down. They got back one of three runs in their half of the first when Bancroft, after making a good stop on Dugan's run, heaved over George Kelly's head. Dugan went to second on the play. Kelly took third on Bancroft's infield out and scored on Pipp's twister to Kelly which went for a hit. This second run came in the fourth when Ward lifted the ball over the bleacher sign boards for a run around the bags. Doubles by Ruth and Meusel accounted for the tying run in the eighth.

Shawkey's work after the first inning was all to the good. He was still a bit wobbly in the second and third but pulled through, and for the remaining seven innings allowed but three hits, one of them being Bancroft's single to center in the tenth.

YANKIES HAVE CHANCE

The sweetest collection of done has it that the Yankees despite the one game loss have an equal chance with the Giants to win the series. The argument for this is that the Giants have used two of their best pitchers and have won one game while the Yanks have used two of their best pitchers and lost one game. This leaves the Yanks with two pitchers rated among the top notchers. Hoyt and Mays, while McQuillan, Scott and Ryan, the remaining regulars of the Giant staff are not regarded so highly. Friday's batting order.

INTERLAKE BOWLERS OPEN SEASON TODAY

First games in the Interlake Bowling league, formed a few days ago, will be rolled Friday evening on the Arcade alleys. The league now has six teams of five men each but two more teams will enter in a few days.

Teams now in have been named Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Ohio.

Fifty two games will be rolled by each team during the season and prizes will be given when the schedule is completed. There will be prizes for the winning team, the highest average for the season and the high individual score.

Football fans from this part of the state who had hopes of witnessing the Chicago-Princeton game on Saturday, Oct. 23, have been forced to change their plans. The applications for pasteboards to this intersectional gridiron clash have been turned back by the Maroon's football management with the simple notation that no seats are to be had for love nor money. Evidently, the students and graduates have gobbled up every available duet for the game.

WORK OUTLINED FOR TEACHERS IN EVENING CLASSES

English For Foreigners Will Be Given Special Emphasis This Year

Teachers, who are to have charge of evening classes for foreigners who wish to learn to read and write English, held a meeting at the vocational school on Thursday evening immediately after the meeting of all the evening teachers of the Vocational school. English classes will open on Monday evening in all the ward schools. Invitations have been sent by a committee of Appleton Women's club to all people in the city, who have never been taught the language, to attend these meetings.

Plans for the first evening will include a social feature and a get acquainted program as well as beginning the work. More than 100 copies of the most recent government text book for English for newcomers to the United States have been provided for the work, as well as some more advanced books.

BE PRACTICAL
"Teach your classes things which they can make use of the next day in the shop or in the home," said Mrs. M. S. Peerenboom to the new teachers in a paper in which she told of her experience with many people who have learned English. "These people are more interested in being able to use conversational English than they are in reading and more interested in reading than in writing sometimes. You must remember that you are teaching these people the language to be used in daily life, not as a basis for the understanding of literature."

A round table discussion of the work followed Mrs. Peerenboom's paper. Many of the new teachers in this work asked about methods which they thought might work out.

GREATEST CREATOR
Ben Rohan, principal of the Second District schools, spoke at the meeting of all the evening teachers on "The Chosen Profession." He said that aside from the mother of the child and the Great Master that the teacher was the greatest creator in the world. He said that the influence of the teacher on her pupils is a thing that cannot be measured, and of which a teacher is often unconscious, but that she is having a tremendous part in molding the lives with which she works. He told several stories to illustrate the far reaching influence of teachers on the lives of their students even after they have grown to manhood and womanhood.

H. G. Sackler also spoke on the service of school teaching in general and of the great service of teaching workers to the community. The system of enrollment and records used at the school was explained to the new teachers by W. S. Ford.

NEARLY $2000 IN HIGH SCHOOL BANK

Reports of the organizers of Thrift Incorporated, which is taking the place of Appleton High School bank show that a sum of $1,553 was deposited in the First National Bank, representing the money in active student accounts. This does not include the money deposited this week by the freshmen, but only the transferred accounts of the upper-classesmen.

At the end of each school year, according to Lee C. Raser, principal of the high school, more than $1000 is withdrawn from the high school bank by graduating students. They use the money at that time either for commencement expenses or to establish a personal account with a city bank. At the end of the school year of 1921-1922, there was a little more than $3000 in the bank. Some graduating students leave their money in the high school bank considering that it is as good there as any other place.

SPIED TODAY

LOTS OF RASPBERRIES

Yesterday when I went out in my garden to look around I saw, to my astonishment, that the raspberry bushes were loaded with berries. I picked about three quarts. The berries are much larger and juicier than the summer crop.

Mrs. J. W. D.

COVERED WITH CHEMICALS

I saw a fireman who thought more of putting out a fire than a show of bath of chemicals over his head and street clothing. The department had responded to an alarm and was using chemicals on the roof from the tank of one of the trucks. Suddenly the hose uncoupled itself. The fireman hadn't had time to put on his rubber coat and helmet, but saw the hose separate. He seized the two gushing ends and attempted to connect them so the work could go on and the resulting spray caused him to be saturated from head to foot with the white fluid. He mopped his face with his sleeve and kept on about his duties.

B. R. J.

THEY HELPED HER

While standing on a corner I spied coming out of a store, a girl who was wearing spectacles for the first time.

She saw a car passing and raising her spectacles above her eyes she said, "Why I believe that's a fellow I know."

M. H.

CAN'T HURT 'EM

As we were riding up Pearl Street hill we saw a Ford, which was about to turn west, go between the track and the sidewalk at the upper part of the hill. The approaching street car as it turned east gave the Ford a boost and it "hopped" on the sidewalk. When it stopped we started over to see if any damage was done or any help needed and found, to our dismay, only a broken fender, a slightly jolted party and a perfectly "runnable" Ford.

A. M. S.

SPENT ALL HIS MONEY ON PIN

While at the Y. M. C. A. this morning reserving my ticket for the lecture series I saw a college student talking to a girl. As he sauntered away I saw a big hole in the heel of one stocking while the other had a rip or two. On his shirt however, was pinned a jeweled fraternity pin.

J. H.

STREET FOR PLAYGROUND

Last evening a car containing one man, the driver and about ten girls, all from Menasha, raced up and down the avenue singing and yelling. They yelled for Menasha and also yelled at the people on the street corners.

L. B. H.

HE GREW UP

I was in a men's clothing store when a woman came in and asked to look at some sweaters for her "little" boy. She picked out one that she thought would fit her "little" boy. It was a size 32. Her "little" boy came in. When the clerk saw him he could hardly repress a laugh. The woman had forgotten that her "little" boy had grown up for after hunting through his stock the clerk hauled out a size 44, which just fitted the "little" boy.

H. A. F.

NO CIVIC PRIDE

I spied a truck driver who hasn't much respect for people's sensibilities and not enough civic pride to give visitors a favorable impression of Appleton. He drove through College-ave. during a busy time of the day with the carcass of a horse on his truck. The body was covered with canvas but the legs protruded. People didn't seem to enjoy the sight.

SOFT FOR HUGHIE WHEN HE'S HOME

"At ease" That's how Hugh Jennings is shown in the picture above. Below: he's pictured with his wife, Hugh is pulling up a few grass blades on his lawn—about as near as he ever comes to mowing the grass.

By Dudley Siddall

New York—Hugh Jennings, assistant manager of the New York Giants, cuts lots of ice on the ball field. At home he doesn't even cut the grass.

Occasionally his wife can get him into the yard to do his stuff on the weeds. But mostly her exceedingly spoiled husband contents himself with exercising the family easy chairs during his hours away from the Polo grounds.

WIFE IS HIS HOBBY

Van Owen, the mascot photographer, was best on getting a photo of Jennings engaged at his favorite hobby. For once the resourceful Hughie was stopped. He couldn't think of a single, solitary hobby outside of baseball.

ARRIVAL OF CEMENT AIDS HIGHWAY WORK

By Associated Press
Milwaukee — Road conditions throughout Wisconsin have remained much the same the past week, according to the Milwaukee Journal's tour department.

With the arrival of more cement progress is being made on highways which have been closed throughout the season, and which were being held up for the past month because of the lack of cement.

Highway 17 to Sturgeon Bay is in good condition. There is one small detour just out of Two Rivers but this is easily travelable. Highway 57 north is in fairly good condition. From care of brothers and sisters—and for the last 12 years the lucky Hughie has been getting all the attention that she used to spread around among the whole flock.

HOW HE LIKES IT

And oh man! How he likes it! He sits there at breakfast and fairly beams his way through the meal as she totes in the baked apples with thick cream, the coffee, and the rest of the ammunition a husky ball player needs to start the day.

Not content with looking after all the domestic duties—no maid for the capable Mrs. Jennings—she drives him to the Polo Grounds every morning when the club is in town. She goes to all the games. And when, man-like, Hughie wants to talk shop she is perfectly able to discuss plays and players as far back as he cares to go. She—

HAPPINESS GALORE

However a truthful and accurate reporter couldn't help but overlook him entirely when talking about his home life. All he does in New Rochelle is to snail up the happiness and comfort that she provides in abundance.

Though Jennings is a lawyer, a Cornell graduate, he devotes little time to his law as his managerial duties keep him fairly busy the year round. In the winter he and Mrs. Jennings make their home in Scranton.

Waldo says however, the road is choppy in places.

For St. Paul the 15, 47, 10, 11, 12 combination still holds good.

Highway 15 is about the best route to Madison, although the going is rather rough in places. Highway 12 to Kilbuck is also open.

Highway 41 still has two detours between Wausau and Jefferson. Highway 61 to Milwaukee is now open. There is still a little detour around Troy.

Highway 36 between Burham hill and Waterford is still closed and the best contribution to Lake Geneva is 36, C. 20, 36.

LA FOLLETTE AND BLAINE UNITE TO HELP SCHNEIDER

Progressives Will Concentrate Their Efforts In Ninth District

The state Republican party will concentrate on the Ninth congressional district, it was determined at the meeting of the state Republican central committee, according to Fred Bachman, city treasurer, who attended as the delegate from Outagamie-co.

Complete harmony has been effected between the Hall and Schneider factions, Mr. Bachman said, and Elmer S. Hall defeated candidate for congress from this district, will personally work for the election of George S. Schneider of Appleton. Senator La Follette and Governor Blaine also are planning to make a vigorous campaign in the district in behalf of the Appleton man. The possible candidacy of Judge Graess is said to give the party more alarm than any other candidate in any district.

ROB FOR PRESIDENT

Another thing that developed at the meeting is the general sentiment that if Senator LaFollette is elected by an overwhelming majority, a widespread movement may be launched for "La Follette for President" clubs throughout the country. Efforts will be made at the general elections to bring about a much larger vote for the senator than the large vote he received in the primaries.

Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., was elected chairman of the central committee, who in turn was to appoint an advisory committee. A publicity manager also will be selected.

Fred Bachman was elected to represent the Ninth congressional district on the finance committee. After adjournment the committee members went to the farm of Senator LaFollette, where they were entertained at tea by Mrs. LaFollette and Mrs. Blaine. During the noon recess Wednesday the members were guests of Sol Levitan, candidate for treasurer in the Capitol cafe.

GET INJUNCTION TO KEEP TEACHER OUT OF SCHOOL

Court Grants Writ In Quarrel
Between School Board
And Miss Heenan

The first battle in the dispute waged over the question of who is teacher of Joint School District No. 9, towns of Greenville and Grand Chute, was won by the school board of that district Thursday, when Judge A. M. Spencer issued an injunction temporarily restraining Miss Phoebe Heenan of Grand Chute from interfering with or visiting the school.

This action was taken after the board was unsuccessful in its efforts to keep Miss Heenan, who claims the teaching contract for the school, off the premises. Civil action has also been instituted against the claimant demanding $500 damages.

DENY CONTRACT
The school over which Miss Heenan is alleged to have claimed authority is at present being taught by Miss Audrey Bailey of Appleton. Although the former asserts that she was engaged by the school board, that body disclaims any contract with her and maintains that it engaged Miss Bailey.

Defendant is charged with having without authority entered the grounds and building, usurped the powers of a teacher, caused damage to the school property and prevented children from attending school who otherwise would have attended.

Action was brought by Michael J. McCarthy, director of the board, to collect $500 for alleged damages to the school board, plaintiff. An injunction also was secured, and served on Miss Heenan Thursday morning by Under-sheriff Earl Schwartz, which prohibits her from visiting the school premises.

Both Miss Bailey and Miss Heenan reported for duty at the opening of school on Sept. 11, each asserting to have been engaged by the school board. Miss Bailey by the old board previous to the annual school meeting, and Miss Heenan by the new board.

Miss Heenan was first in charge, although her rival reported for duty both morning and afternoon. When John Heenan took matters into his own hands to protect his daughter, he was arraigned in municipal court Sept. 14 charged with molesting and disturbing the school. His trial was not held on the scheduled date on account of illness.

JEALOUSY PROVIDES PLOT FOR ST. JOSEPH PLAY

That jealousy can lead people so blinded by that passion into more scrapes than they suppose, is seen from the three-act farce, "Jealous Hearts," that young people of St. Joseph parish are to give in St. Joseph hall Oct. 15 and 16.

In the play conclusions are jumped at without a knowledge of the facts, and mistaken identity proves serious to their jealous minds. Two men both bearing the name of Jack Hart start the trouble. One is jealous of his "sweetie" and the other Jack Hart has a jealous wife. Both occupy separate apartments in the same building and know nothing of each other until their mail becomes confused. Then the fun begins.

Joseph Doerfler will take the part of the married Jack Hart, and Sylvester Stangle will have the part of the unmarried Jack. Both are well selected and give promise of handling their parts in a fitting manner.

The play will be given for the benefit of a new home for the Sisters of that congregation.

OSHKOSH NORMAL SCHOOL OFFERS EXTENSION WORK

A meeting will be held in Columbus hall at 8 o'clock Saturday morning to arrange for classes in extension courses, offered by the state normal school of Oshkosh.

The extension courses as offered this year will differ from the old correspondence courses, for actual class room advantages will be given. Those who plan to do the work will have the opportunity of meeting once or twice a week and covering the ground prescribed for a unit of work in the regular normal school classes.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES WILL REMAIN IN CONTEST

Mrs. Jessie Hooper of Oshkosh, democrat candidate for United States senator, and Karl Mathie, democratic candidate for governor, are to continue their fight for office. Both attended the state committee meeting and informed members they were in the fight to the finish either as regular candidates or as independent candidates. Both declared they are fighting for great principles and that they will continue the battle to the finish.

College Students Buy Old Cars Off Junk Piles To Go To Football Games

Here Is A Chance For Owners
Of Rattletraps To Get Rid Of
Their White Elephants Before
Craze Ends

"Land sakes, it ain't safe to go down town no more with them college students riding around the town like wild in them noisy old cars," said one neighbor to another. "Why, yesterday, I was crossing the street and along comes an automobile, chugging along, filled with a dozen boys, an even dozen. I know because I counted them. I'm glad my boy is at the University instead of running around with those boys, they ought to be old enough to know better, and their poor fathers. I suppose that car looked new when they come to school."

"Well my boy goes to school with those boys and he probably was in that car," defended her neighbor. "The fathers really have nothing to do with those cars because the boys have bought them second hand. Every two or three fellows who can scrape up $50 or $100 and enough to buy five gallons of gas and a quart of oil want a car like that, my boy says. They spend their money anyway, so I say let them alone."

OFF JUNK PILE
Many people have been shaking their heads at the overloaded cars of boys, since the automobile bug hit the students at Lawrence college badly. The nice thing about it, is the democratic spirit of the craze. None of the cars which have been purchased within the last week or so have cost more than $100. Two fellows got a pretty good touring car of the vintage of 1914 for $35, but prices have advanced since then, because the demand is so heavy.

"But why spend your money on junk?" is the question that is being asked of the boys, but the continue to hunt the valley for cheap cars, not worrying much about looks just so the things go. Even the girls are beginning to take kindly to the cars and ride around in them, now, although they did not at first. "The fellows want to go to the Beloit and Ripon game, that is the reason for the cars," explained one prospective buyer. "You see if three fellows get a car for $50 and run around in it all during the fall, go to the Beloit and Ripon games, why then they can afford to sell it for junk. In the meantime, what difference does it make how much noise the old engine pounds out or how she looks, just so long as she goes. Good, imagine my father seeing me with 13 fellows in our Buick. Little son would go right back home to the apron strings and the birch rod. But an old car like this, who cares?"

SOME WORDS OF WISDOM

Wise and sensible words are those spoken by Senator Caraway of Arkansas, returning from the Inter-Parliamentary congress at Vienna, "says our friend, the Milwaukee Sentinel. Its admission of wisdom in Mr. Caraway's observations on European conditions is the senator's statement that it is time for the United States to do some plain talking: that our government should inform the European countries that the anti-American propaganda now rife there and misrepresentations concerning us should stop and that they must be told to disband their armies, balance their budgets, try to pay their debts and devote themselves more wholeheartedly in the reconstruction of their own sadly afflicted countries."

We think everyone will join with the Sentinel and Senator Caraway in this judgment against Europe. Perhaps the administration is waiting for their advice before addressing itself plainly to the nations of Europe. But Mr. Caraway uttered some other "wise and sensible words" about the European situation which the Sentinel prudently refrained from mentioning. With Mr. Caraway on his trip to Vienna were three Republican senators and one other Democrat. This senatorial delegation visited the League of Nations when in session in Switzerland. We quote from a newspaper report of their return: "The League of Nations, said Mr. Caraway, favorably impressed all of the senators. McKinley, (of Illinois) he added, was inclined to be eloquent about it and as a matter of fact, 'we had a hard time keeping the Republicans from joining the League right then and there.'" Words not so "wise and sensible," we take it, at least not politically.

The conclusions reached by the senatorial delegation, Republicans included, that the League of Nations is a functioning force for the advancement and peace of Europe, in fact that it is the one tower of hope standing in the chaos of the Old world, is the opinion held by all those who have made an unpolitical investigation of conditions there. Mr. Caraway believes that it would be the right thing "if we could find it possible to join the League." To quote him further:

Something must be done, that's certain. Stabilization is necessary if Europe is to be saved, and at this moment central Europe is a wreck. Without question we could, in my opinion, aid the League and do so without incurring the remotest peril to ourselves. If Europe stops producing it would, in the end, nearly destroy our industry. There should take us into the League on our own terms. At least they want our moral support.

And when you look at the men who are running the League you cannot escape the admission that they are men of such high character that we could not possibly incur any danger should we go in. I believe the day will come when we will either go in or else go to Europe some other way, either via the steamship route or else through our armed forces.

I could not but be impressed with the same efforts the League is making to bring something like order out of the existing European chaos. The people of Europe take it very seriously. They consider it of great potential help. If we had remained around much longer, I am sure all our Republican members would have joined. They were certainly impressed and most favorably. They may not admit it just at this season of the year, but it is true the same.

Here are some real words of wisdom and sense that even a Milwaukee Sentinel may be able to discover at some future time. We can readily enough admit that Europe has made some costly blunders since the war ended, that it is not doing all that it could do to restore itself, that its strife and bickering and selfishness are deplorable, even censurable, and that in truth and in fact it has no one to blame but itself for its predicament, but having admitted all this where does it leave the United States? Does it in reality excuse us from lending at least our moral aid the working out of Europe's moral problems? Are not the affairs of the world, the peace and security as well as the strife of the world, of concern to the United States? These are the questions that lie back of the League of Nations and that must in due time be answered and answered right.

MORE ACCIDENTS AT RAIL CROSSINGS

Despite an intensive educational safety campaign, the number of accidents at railroad crossings was larger in June, July and August this year than in the same months of last year. The increase over the corresponding period of last year was thirty per cent.

The American railway association had educational bulletins posted everywhere, and at all railroad crossings they were displayed conspicuously. "Cross (crossings) Carefully." The alliterative warning sticks in the mind. And the picture of the locomotive colliding with the automobile could not be forgotten.

With the statistics given out goes the statement that about eighty per cent of the accidents were due to carelessness of automobile drivers. Seemingly, automobile drivers have not yet learned that safety and discretion are speed.

REGULATION OF DANCING

In several cities steps are being taken to regulate dancing by requiring managers of halls to take out municipal licenses. Ordinances provide rules for running the halls. Regulating dancing is far wiser than attempting to stop it. Young people will dance. They see nothing wrong in it, and they look on drastic measures as unreasonable infringement on their rights.

Many dances are wrong, and many are wrong under uncontrolled conditions. Many are all right. The wise course is not to try to prevent dancing, but to so regulate it that it will not be objectionable. Well managed dance halls are community assets. We must take human nature as it is, and conditions as they are, and use them discreetly to the best advantage.

SKINNER AND BEBAN ON MOVIE ART

Mr. Otis Skinner has torn the movie production of "Way Down East" to pieces in an effort to illustrate that motion picture dramatic production is not an art. Mr. Skinner is still faithful to the stage, of which he has been an ornament for many years.

Now comes Mr. George Beban, a movie actor, who declares that most men and women in the movies, including stars, know how to pose, or are taught to pose, but cannot act. The ladies look beautiful and the men handsome, yet only a few, he says, can act.

There is much to Mr. Skinner's charge that stupendous pictures are chiefly scenery. Magnitude is effected by views of rivers, lakes, mountains. The plot and the characterization are inferior artistically. So is there much to Mr. Beban's assertion that many movie players are not actors. Too many stars rise suddenly and flicker out.

However, there is no doubt that the movies are an art, and that there are many capable actors and actresses in them. The criticism, severe as it is, is true, but it applies particularly to the faults of producers and directors.

CAZE FOR WRITING

Among the effects of a young woman suicide in Southern California was a trunkful of manuscripts each of which was marked with the sign of editorial rejection. What merit the work possessed is not available information, but the presumption is that the writer had no conception of the requirements of the publishing market. That trunk may contain immortal masterpieces, the rare qualities of which escaped the editorial eye, or it may be loaded with nothing better than sadly wasted effort.

The words must be full of people that can write well enough for publication—they must be or there could not be all the printed matter that is published—but they are packed with people laboring under the delusion that they have literary talent and that a dollar earned by writing is worth two dollars earned at more useful work or at least work for which they are better fitted. There was a time when literary talent called for encouragement, but now it shrieks for something to discourage it.

The market is glutted. Everybody is writing. It is a disease of the age. But it will pass. Every craze dies out in the course of time.—SAN FRANCISCO BULLETIN.

BOILED DINNER MYSTERY

They do some queer things in restaurants. Not long ago the doughnut covered with chocolate appeared. Then some chef jazzed squash pie by putting whipped cream on it.

But—now they've taken the vegetables out of the boiled dinner, and it is high time somebody did something. This sign has appeared of late "New England Boiled Dinner—With Vegetables."

The dinners provided by Mother and Grandmother each Monday—in order to use up the last heat on washing day—always contained in addition to the corned beef, delectable cabbage, golden carrots, tarty potatoes, sweet beans, meaty potatoes.

We can imagine Hamlet without the melancholy Dane. But a New England boiled dinner without vegetables would be like a war without soldiers, like the sea without water, like cricket without tea.—WORCESTER GAZETTE.

"Do Men Have More Brains Than Women?" a magazine article asks. Not where women are concerned, is the correct answer, we should say.—SYRACUSE HERALD.

IS CHOLERA MORBUS?

Add to the list of diseases we have already assigned to the realms of mythology the hypothetical state conceived by the old timers under the name of "cholera morbus." That list is acquiring considerable length.

Enlightened folks do not take "cold" nor stock in that old trouble. To call joint trouble "rheumatism" brings sorrow and confusion. "Nervous breakdown" tells no tale, but merely begs the question. A doctor earns no honest kate by springing "indigestion," "fruit green or raw, kids under four should seldom ever take, but all that happens if they do is plain old belly ache.

Belly ache or cramps associated with vomiting and perhaps diarrhea for a few hours can happen all right, if a child under five years of age eats some raw fruit, especially if the fruit is not ripened enough. Nothing alarming in the rebellion of nature against the improper food. When we hear of cases far away in which children actually succumb to cholera morbus we must discount the stories, allowing about 95 per cent off for the inventive or imaginative genius of the reporter. These alleged fatalities from "cholera morbus" are of the same class as the "heat prostrations" in cities when a spell of warm weather arrives; the truth is that healthy persons suffer no "heat prostration" attributable to weather in the United States or Canada, but many invalids or semi-invalids succumb to whatever ails them, and the nimble reporter eagerly seizes on another case of "heat prostration."

Cholera morbus, the hypothetical or imaginary condition, gives some parents much needless anxiety. There is nothing at all serious about the upset a child sometimes, not invariably suffers from indulging in raw or unripe fruit. Just a bit of belly ache with trimmings, in no wise comparable with actual (Asiatic) cholera, and not in the least like so-called "cholera infantum" in cause or effect. The only dreadful thing about "cholera morbus" is the misleading name for belly ache.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Cold Shower Bath
I take a cold shower bath every morning after my exercise. Would like to know if cold shower baths cause consumption or injure health in any way. Is it safe to continue them through the winter months? I am 27 years old and underweight for my height, 5 feet 10 inches.—(B. E. H.)

Answer—Cold shower baths do not cause consumption or injure health in any way, if you enjoy the terrible experience and feel refreshed with the reaction. It is as safe to take cold shower baths in the winter months as in the summer. I do not recommend cold bathing for persons who are underweight.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Friday, October 8, 1897
James Nagle of Shiocton moved to Appleton to make his permanent home.

F. H. Terry of the Standard Paper Co., Milwaukee, called on Appleton friends.

Dr. Al. Dubois of Neenah accepted a position in Dr. W. H. Meeker's office.

A. E. McCurdy, the well known Oshkosh insurance man, was an Appleton visitor.

Miss Rose Walsh and Andrew Trozel were married Oct. 5 by Justice J. H. Cook.

G. D. Rowell received a telegram from Hartland announcing the death of his uncle, Mark Rowell, aged 80.

Neenah Times said that G. F. Peabody and Henry A. Foster visited friends in that city the day previous. They made the trip behind one of Mr. Foster's fast pacers.

More than 200 delegates were attending the eleventh annual convention of the Wisconsin Christian Endeavor Union which opened the day previous. Cheese sold at from 3 1/2 to 5 1/2 cents on the Hor-tonville dairy basis of trade.

Edward Ulrich, 40, assistant postmaster for 17 years died at his home the previous night.

Wallie, 4, and Viola, 2, children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sedo of Black Creek, were fatally poisoned the day previous by eating poisonous berries which they found in the woods.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Belding issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Harriet May De-yoe, to Louis Wissman, which was to take place at their residence on Oct. 20.

Alderman M. H. Crowsell and Miss Etha Holmes were to be married at Chicago, Oct. 25.

A NO-MURDER WEEK, NEXT

Having been kind to animals one week, eaten a dozen eggs a day another week, sent flowers to mother another week, ridden bicycles another week, observed the Constitution still another week, it was certain that we should be called on, by the governor of Washington, as it happens, for a smile week.

It was an inspiration. Here we were all going around with grouches, ill-tempered, scowling, until the Washington governor broke in with an injunction to smile for the week beginning October 1. It may be hard on the muscles of the face. But advance practice is permissible.

"I wish," the kind governor adds, "the newspapers, the theaters and the movies would eliminate the murders and all depressing and sorrow breeding items, acts and pictures."

A pretty large program, isn't it, to combine all this with smile week? Besides, the governor is appealing to the wrong people. It's not the news-papers he should call on. It's the prospective murderers. Let all such be invited to desert for the week beginning October 8. Smile week should be followed by no-murder week.—KANSAS CITY STAR.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

TEMPERAMENT OVERSHADOWED GENIUS AND ABILITY

The passage of Senator Thomas E. Watson of Georgia eliminates from public life a man who might have been one of America's greatest leaders in the opinion of many editors. There is a lament that his genius was of the highest order but was always handicapped by his turbulent nature and his intense and bitter animosities. As a United States Senator he generally is regarded as a significant failure but there is a complete acceptance of his merits as a historian. Watson, the Cincinnati TIMES STAR is convinced, "should never have held office, it was incompatible with his temperament," and it points out that his sole contribution, as Senator, was his charge of cruelty against American officers in France "which was proved by investigation to have been the figment of poor Watson's brain," but also recalls that "he was an historian of very real merit—a latter day Carlisle of less color and less depth. Too bad that the 'State of Georgia saw fit to pillory him with his accentuated indolencies in the Senate during the declining months of a tempestuous life.' Watson was 'picturesque, interesting, and, at times, exciting,' as a statesman figure. Nothing alarming in the rebellion of nature against the improper food. When we hear of cases far away in which children actually succumb to cholera morbus we must discount the stories, allowing about 95 per cent off for the inventive or imaginative genius of the reporter. These alleged fatalities from 'cholera morbus' are of the same class as the 'heat prostrations' in cities when a spell of warm weather arrives; the truth is that healthy persons suffer no 'heat prostration' attributable to weather in the United States or Canada, but many invalids or semi-invalids succumb to whatever ails them, and the nimble reporter eagerly seizes on another case of 'heat prostration.'

Cholera morbus, the hypothetical or imaginary condition, gives some parents much needless anxiety. There is nothing at all serious about the upset a child sometimes, not invariably suffers from indulging in raw or unripe fruit. Just a bit of belly ache with trimmings, in no wise comparable with actual (Asiatic) cholera, and not in the least like so-called "cholera infantum" in cause or effect. The only dreadful thing about "cholera morbus" is the misleading name for belly ache.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Cold Shower Bath
I take a cold shower bath every morning after my exercise. Would like to know if cold shower baths cause consumption or injure health in any way. Is it safe to continue them through the winter months? I am 27 years old and underweight for my height, 5 feet 10 inches.—(B. E. H.)

Answer—Cold shower baths do not cause consumption or injure health in any way, if you enjoy the terrible experience and feel refreshed with the reaction. It is as safe to take cold shower baths in the winter months as in the summer. I do not recommend cold bathing for persons who are underweight.

SEA SERPENT WITH WINGS

LONDON.—The Constantinian correspondent of the London Express says that the Greek fleet are scouring the Sea of Marmora for a winged sea monster which is reported to have appeared off the Princes Isles.

It was first sighted in the Aegean off the island of Negroponte, and it so frightened the fishermen that the Greek government had to send out an armed launch in pursuit. It now seems to have passed unseen through the Dardanelles.

Persons who claim to have seen the monster declare that it measures forty feet, and that its flappers alone would smash a ferryboat. The passengers and crew of the Siri Sefin boat saw it half way between Pendik and Cartal, a station of the Anatolian railway. There was a violent commotion on the surface of the otherwise tranquil sea, and then appeared the vague form of an enormous winged monster of which first the head and then the tail was seen.

The Siri Sefin boat, they declare, started a "toy ship" the distorted waters until the monster dived and disappeared towards the islands. Naturalists believe the monster to be a whale.

London.—Discussing a report that a "sage" of National dispatch case, stolen on the supposition that it contained important papers actually was empty the Daily Express says it is reminded of the tale Lord Fisher used to tell his friends about the Admiral's red box. Whenever he went the Admiral had his red dispatch box borne before him as containing his most secret instructions. Captains and midshipmen gazed on it with almost reverential awe: till one day it fell, burst open, and disclosed only some copies of "La Vie Parisienne."

Perhaps it is too much to infer that the "sage" was a fool.

Yes, Perhaps it is.

ability, but his judgment was badly timed and there was a kink in his mental make-up that prevented his being a great Georgian. There were so many sides to him that it was difficult to tie to him politically or otherwise. His senatorial career "was more fantastic than useful," the Syracuse HERALD says but "no one familiar with his public record, and also with the literary fruits of his talent, could fail to be impressed by the versatility of his intellect. The pity is that it was so often employed for purposes that cannot be recalled to the honor of his memory." This in part is also the opinion of the New York EVENING WORLD which says "in its relation to national life and progress Watson's political career was, in the main, a kind of meteor, lurid but meaningless, landing nowhere," and the Raleigh NEWS AND OBSERVER believes "he was a genius rather than a man of talent and rules can be set for genius. He must go his own gait or he cannot go at all." Regardless of the proverb prohibiting saying anything but good about the dead the Norfolk LEDGER DISPATCH feels that "the country should be grateful that Providence has removed Thomas E. Watson from the Senate and should say that the country be saved from others like him," while the Baltimore SUN believes that "the feeling one has for him now is one of profound pity that a man of his native capacity should so have marred and mutilated his life—should have wallowed foaming in the mire instead of walking upright among the strong and useful figures of his country. In time Georgia will recover from the mood of Watsonism and resume her old attitude of sanity and dignity."

PRINCESS AND THE DOPE DEALER.

London.—The Paris correspondent of the Express says that Captain Harry Saunders, or "Jack" Saunders, who was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment for trafficking in cocaine, is an Englishman who has long been prominent in Franco-British Bohemian circles in Paris. Saunders has a figure of romance, tall, handsome, and well dressed, he nearly always wore sponge-bag black and white check trousers, white spats, and a black jacket. He was invariably accompanied on his walks abroad by two or more dogs, animals of which he had an expert's knowledge.

After an adventurous career in Australia, India and America, Saunders came to Paris and opened an Anglo-American bar and restaurant near the Opera. Here were to be met all sorts of well-known characters. Among the people who visited the establishment was an American woman married to an Italian prince. She had a daughter of seventeen who was much in love with, and wanted to marry, a young Italian aviator. The mother, separated from the prince, forbade the match. The girl was at Deauville, and took passage after the last train had left for the Normandy resort.

She rushed round Paris distracted, and came to Captain Saunders for assistance. He guaranteed to drive her to Deauville quicker than anybody else could. All speed records were broken when the race against death began over the smooth road to Deauville. But, quickly as Saunders drove, death was quicker. The girl was dead when the princess arrived, but the mother never forgot the attempt to her daughter's head.

It was the princess who stood Captain Saunders' friend when he was arrested three weeks ago on the serious charge of trafficking in drugs. She offered to go bail in any amount the authorities would accept, but the police were adamant; the last offer they refused was 1,000 pounds. All that the princess could do was to use what influence she had to have the trial hastened on—in the ordinary way Captain Saunders would have been several months in prison waiting trial—of engaging a well-known lawyer to defend him.

Attention also is directed by the Atlanta JOURNAL to the fact that "his veteran followers adored him; his antagonists never forgot" and refers to the general sorrow at home over his passing also remembering "that if he was the source or center of much discord he was also the author of that goodly legislation from which has grown the rural free delivery of mails blessing today every countryside beneath the flag." He was indeed a man of remarkable qualities. "The things he did," the Atlanta JOURNAL says, "while his enemies oftentimes had him defeated he refused to remain down although 'his courage often was greater than his discretion,' and the STAR thinks that 'had his point of view been more conservative he would have ranked high among historians.' He also was 'either hated or loved'—there was no footing in his character and career for a midway purchase of indifference from which to view him," says the Knoxville SENTINEL and "he did not appear ever to feel happy or to be in his element when he was not stirring up the animals and in the thick of some polemic or political fight," but the Manchester UNION holds that "there was one of the men whose careers furnish illustrations for the present day literature of despair. The gloomy fact is, under democracy carried to the extreme of universal suffrage, and under a system of popular election of Senators, a man of the rabble-rousing type carried all before him."

The Der Mours REGISTER also says that "Watson was a very conspicuous white blood corpuscle. He stirred up a multitude of red ones in his time."

His bitter partisanship and rabid animosities were in sharp contrast with his literary ability, the Springfield REPUBLICAN argues, because "had he in his later career stood for anything but opposition and hatreds, his talent might have enabled him to make a mark in the country. He was deserving of a greater fame, but no man has ever been greater than the thing of his own making."

The Savannah PRESS recalls "there was no question about Tom Watson's

World's Goat

The Turkish massacres and military comeback would not have occurred if the United States had not been afraid to take part in European affairs. This is the opinion of Dr. Christian F. Reinsner, preaching in New York after a long tour in Europe. America is becoming the world's official goat. You have noticed the tendency to blame us for everything that goes wrong in Europe. Before long we'll probably be charged with starting the war.

Einstein's brain gets into deeper water. He turns from his relativity theory and begins studying electrons and the quanta theory. This theory is that radiations such as light are streams of lying particles of matter instead of waves or vibrations in the ether.

Such probably is the case with radium. At the far end of the road is the theory that force is a form of matter.

You could learn to talk Chinese in six months, says Franklin C. H. Lee, linguist. White children born in China "pick up" Chinese words more easily than English words.

The old Chinese language, with no alphabet, has 40,000 characters. This has been simplified into an alphabet of 33 letters. With our foreign trade future swinging from Europe to the Orient, the day may be ahead when as many Americans will study Chinese as now study French and German.

In the British grain market, experts estimate that this year's harvest of the six cereal crops of Russia and Ukraine will total about 39,000,000 tons, against 27,000,000 last year and 66,000,000 in 1916. That should be enough to keep Russia alive, on a restricted diet.

But there is no excess for export. Which will please American farmers who know what grain prices, already low, would be if Russia were selling heavily in the international market.

An unofficial congressional party visited China as well as other countries in 1920, but they were in no way connected with the Shantung question.

A. "Stare decisis, et non quita movere" or the first part of the phrase, "stare decisis" would make an admirable motto for a mother's club. Translated it is "to stand by decisions and not to disturb matters once settled."

Q. Do chiggers actually burrow under the skin? I. T.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that they are only in a figurative sense that chiggers get under the skin. They are too small to be seen readily without a magnifying glass, but it is only their feet that are inserted into the skin.

Q. What is the relation between the Bow-bells and Cockneys? F. L. F.

A. The word "Cockney" is applied to one born within the sound of Bow-bells, the bells of St. Mary-le-bow, in Cheapside, London, England.

Q. What would be a good verse to send with flowers to a young lady? M. X. F.

A. If you are sending roses perhaps the following stanza of Waller's will do: "O, lovely rose! Tell her that wastes her time and me That now she knows When I resemble her to thee, How sweet and fair she seems to be."

CLUB WOMEN GET START ON PLANS FOR NEW SEASON

Son Of Count Tolstoy Expected To Give Lecture In Appleton

That Appleton Womens club will not have to move from its present quarters in Appleton hotel until early spring at least was reported at the regular board meeting at the club room on Thursday afternoon by Mrs. H. C. Humphrey. Although the club had received notice to move the women wished to know when the building plans of the hotel would require the space which the club rents from the hotel. Mrs. Humphrey reported that she was assured by Miss Geenen that the club would not have to move before spring and that amply notice would be given the club when the hotel wanted the space.

Among the other activities of the club discussed was the report that the club could have the son of Count Tolstoy give a lecture in Appleton early in January. The board of directors voted favorably for the lecture and details will be announced. Mrs. James Wood is making plans for the financial drive of the club and it will probably take place early in November. Report of money made from Mrs. Theodore Sturkenboom's concert was made by Mrs. H. D. McClesney and Mrs. Roy Marston gave the report on the membership campaign.

The health department of the club will have a Child Health conference at the clubroom on Oct. 24 and 25 for expectant mothers and children under two years of age. Dr. Mildred Van Cleave will conduct the conference which is one of the many which are being conducted by provision of the Sheppard-Towner act and which are being partly financed by federal funds.

The board also voted to allow Miss Martha Chandler and Miss Emily Adams to attend the Wisconsin State Conference of Social Work in Madison on Oct. 11 and 13 and to empower the president to appoint any other members of the club as delegates if they are able to attend. It also voted to have Mrs. H. D. Russell as delegate to the Anti-Tuberculosis association conference in Milwaukee immediately preceding the Madison conference and to urge any others who happen to be in Milwaukee at that time to attend the sessions.

Ratification of the gift of $25 to the National Federation Headquarters building in Washington was also made. The pledge of the gift was made at the state federation convention by the 12 members from the club who attended. The general federation has established headquarters in Washington, D. C. and each state has pledged a sum toward paying for and maintaining the headquarters there. The Wisconsin quota is $2,300, payable over a period of three years.

AUTOISTS NEARLY HIT BY TRAIN ON CROSSING

Fearing they would be run down by a train the occupants of a touring car jumped for their lives Thursday afternoon at Oneida st. crossing after getting caught between the gates and colliding with the flagman's shanty.

The driver either attempted to get across the track ahead of the train or did not notice the gates being lowered. Seeing he could not make it he turned east among the track.

The engineer had his train under control and stopped some distance away. It was a freight train that was delayed at the College ave. crossing earlier in the day by a draw bar pulling out of a car loaded with coal.

50 will be in the membership. The club will use a regular text book.

The organization meeting at the college will take place at 7:30 Tuesday evening. Nearly Half Of Children In School Have Opened Savings Accounts

Kaukauna—Children in Kaukauna schools deposited $126.65 on the day that marked the opening of the banking system introduced into the schools through Thrift Incorporated. The plan has been taken up by 656 from an enrollment of 1143 children. At a stated hour on that day all those who wish to deposit their savings take them to the banker with their pass book, the banker being one of the teachers appointed for the task. Individual accounts are placed in an envelope and carried to the Bank of Kaukauna, which is sponsor for the thrift movement.

REGISTRATION IS SLOW FOR CLASSES
May Discontinue Some Night School Classes Unless There Is More Interest Taken

Kaukauna—Continued warm weather is held responsible for the fact that the evening school enrollment of the vocational school has not as yet reached the average established in the last few years. Unless more registrations are received for sewing classes scheduled to meet in the Nicolet school, these classes will be discontinued until a later time. The Nicolet building will be open next Monday evening for a final opportunity to enroll in the sewing group.
Approximately 85 persons have enrolled for evening courses. It is expected that more than 200 will enroll within a week or two. Twenty-six people registered last Monday evening for one group in sewing. Several men have registered for shop courses, also. One class in cabinet making is full but another will be organized as soon as the increase in students warrants it.
Classes in cooking and millinery will be discontinued unless a larger enrollment is secured soon. The vocational office is open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the evening and registrations may be made at any time.

GRAASS URGED TO REMAIN IN CONGRESS RACE

Judge Graass will proceed exactly as though he were to be a candidate. It is stated that this organization will be one of the most thorough and efficient ever formed for political purposes in the Ninth district.

"Speculation as to whether Hanzel will stay in the race if he is compelled to go on the independent ticket is to the effect that he will not run. It is pointed out that Hanzel would poll a mere handful of votes as against Judge Graass and that his candidacy would be worse than hopeless and that it might operate to defeat Judge Graass. It is believed that when he and his advisers look at the situation squarely in the face, they will come to this conclusion and he will announce his withdrawal.

"On the other hand if the report is true that Judge Graass will not make the race in case Hanzel goes on the Democratic ticket, this is considered by men well versed in politics to be a shrewd as well as important move. It is pointed out that this would be eminently fair to the Democrats and that they could not ask for anything more than the support of their candidate by the independent Republicans, in case their man gets on the party ticket. On the other hand it is argued that in case Hanzel does not get on the Democratic ticket, the fair thing for the Democrats to do would be to give Judge Graass a clear field for the race, as the stronger candidate of the two. It is considered as likely that a friendly agreement will be reached between the Democrats and the Republicans and that it will be either Hanzel as the Democratic nominee or Graass as an independent, depending upon the Supreme Court decision.

"Reports to the Green Bay Press-Gazette indicate that there is great interest in the congressional situation throughout the district. The Press-Gazette has received probably no less than a hundred calls within the last few days from men all over the district wanting to know if Graass has decided to make the race."

PRINCIPALS PLAN VALLEY SOCIETY

Movement Started Here Is Meeting With Approval In Several Cities

Principals of Appleton public schools have set on foot a movement among the Fox River valley administrative officers of schools which will probably result in the reestablishment of the Fox River Valley Schoolmasters club late in October. The Appleton men are anxious that a friendly spirit of cooperation in working for the best aims and ideals of school administration be established in the valley and to that end sent out queries to 50 men from Green Bay to Fond du Lac concerning their interest in the revival of the club, their willingness to help it along and make the programs interesting.

Of the 34 replies received, to date only one was unfavorable to reorganization. No plans have been made for the first meeting as yet, but it probably will take place in Appleton. When the interested men come together, they will decide what is the best way to best develop their aims and ideals. Letters were sent to school administrative officers and those who are directly training administrative officers for schools in Green Bay, DePere, Wrightstown, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly, Menasha, Neenah, Oshkosh, Omro, New London, Hortonville, Clintonville, Bear Creek, Fond du Lac, North Fond du Lac, Appleton.

At one time the club was an active organization in the valley and made for splendid fellowship between the men whose problems with children and young people gave them a great common interest. For several years, the organization was inactive and it was because so many of the men expressed their desire informally for a revival and because they felt that problems of administration at this time are very interesting that the effort was made to call the men together once more.

INDEPENDENTS FILE NOMINATION PAPERS

By Associate Press
Madison—Richard Knaflitz, Milwaukee, Friday filed nomination papers as independent candidate for the United States senate on the Socialist-Labor party platform. A. A. Dietrich, Milwaukee, at the same time filed papers as Socialist-Labor party for governor, running as an independent.

Koepfel who gave his occupation as a journalist, is the first independent to file. Inasmuch as the Socialist-Labor party did not qualify as a regular political organization of the state both Koepfel and Dietrich, a machinist, will go in the independent column.

Mrs. William Drabheim, 1156 Fifth-st., who has been ill in St. Elizabeth hospital is recovering.

Spanish girls who make the famous fans of Valencia are paid about 35 cents a day.

Japan's population increased more than 100 per cent between 1848 and 1918.

Fire stands third as a cause for accidental deaths in the United States. If land were divided equally, each Japanese would have one and one-half acres.

BUSINESS MEN ASK C. N. W. TO RESTORE ANNUED TRAINS

Same Service As Before Strike Is Asked By Chamber Of Commerce Board

Restoration of passenger trains that were removed by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad on the Northern Wisconsin and Ashland divisions during the recent strike will be asked of road officials by the chamber of commerce, following action taken by the board of directors at its biweekly dinner in the Sherman house Thursday evening.

Many complaints have been made concerning the limited passenger service, especially on the Ashland division northward. Secretary Hugh G. Corbett therefore will get in touch with officials at once asking that full service be restored as soon as possible. Several of the important through trains still are out of operation following annulment when the strike was at its height.

Cooperation was promised the Yellowstone Trail association in conducting its state convention here next month. Secretary Corbett was instructed to give all assistance possible in the arrangements, aid in securing a hall and in preparation of the program. A welcome also will be given the delegates.

Reports of the retail trades committee on the College-ave. parking survey, and of the rural affairs committee on the coming corn show were presented. The directors approved the corn show prize list plan and the joint exhibition with the poultry show.

Hearty endorsement was given the activities of fire prevention week. Several industrial propositions were considered but were not acted upon because of their tentative nature.

CALLAHAN QUILTS RACE IN FIFTH

By Associated Press
Madison—John M. Callahan, Democratic candidate for congress in the Fifth Wisconsin district Friday admitted his name to be taken from the ballot. He declared that he had decided not to enter the race either as a Democrat or independent.

Mr. Callahan, with A. A. Bentley, Democratic candidate for governor, is a party to the action before the Supreme court for a writ of mandamus ordering his name on the general election ballot under a Democratic party heading.

California Weather Is Enjoyed In This County

The weather man has come to the assistance of weaners in the battle to beat the coal man. If the balmy weather that has been enjoyed in September and the first week of October will only continue until Christmas, as Indian weather prophets have faithfully promised it will, Appleton folk who have not yet laid in their supply of coal will wear pleasant faces, regardless of the coal shortage.

As a result of the prolonged warm weather this region is beginning to take on the semblance of California. A number of plants are blossoming the second time and others are bearing a second crop. Peas that were harvested during the summer and marketed for canning factories are blossoming again in the fields and farmers are confident they will bear. Oats in several harvested fields have already shot up about 12 to 18 inches and are now starting to head. Strawberries bearing for the second time are quite plentiful, and second crop raspberries, both domestic and wild, are being picked. They have been found near Sherwood and in Center swamp. Some rosebushes also are bearing again.

A certain farmer in Grand Chute is fearful lest his apple trees begin to blossom and bear again. His crop was so large this year that he doesn't know what to do with it.

MUTILATED WAR HERO VISITS HERE

With both legs missing, with his body covered with scars from liquid fire and with his lungs affected as the result of being gassed, J. E. Flynn, one of the 27 survivors of the Canadian Maple Leaf regiment of 4,200 men called on officers of Onev Johnston post of the American legion Friday while on his way home to Winnipeg.

His home was originally in the United States, but when the war broke out he was located in Winnipeg and enlisted in that city. His regiment was put in the thick of the fight almost as soon as it arrived in France and was practically wiped out of existence.

Flynn was in a hospital for 39 months. He has been provided with artificial limbs and gets about with the aid of a cane.

EXAMINE TO FILL POLICE VACANCY

Competitive examinations will be held at 2:30 on the afternoon of Oct. 19 in the city hall to determine who will be successor to James E. McCabe, resigned, as day desk sergeant at the police station. Notice to this effect has been issued by the police and fire commission. Detectives and first class patrolmen serving for more than one year will be eligible.

Sergt. McCabe tendered his resignation Wednesday on account of his age and condition of health and put in his last day Thursday. His office is being filled temporarily by patrolmen on day duty.

OFFER TRAINING TO LEADERS OF GIRLS

Letters are being sent out by Miss Emily Adams, physical director of Appleton Women's club to all women in the city who might be interested in the recreation leaders class which will have its first meeting in the high school gymnasium at 8:35 Monday evening. The course which is to be offered this year by Miss Adams and by Miss Martha Chandler will be different from last year so that any leaders who took the work then would not duplicate this year.

The course is planned especially for those who need recreational work in their church, school, scout and camp fire work or in any other place where a knowledge of recreation directorship is needed. The letters were sent to teachers and business women as well as to others who have showed their interest in this work, especially work with younger girls.

RED ARROW VETERANS TO HOLD BANQUET TUESDAY

Appleton chapter of the Red Arrow division veterans will hold a banquet with an especially delicious menu at 6:45 Tuesday evening in Elk hall. Plans for the winter will be discussed in a short business meeting which is to follow.

Officers of the chapter are endeavoring to reach each man personally to tell him about the "feed" that is in store for him so there will be a large attendance.

Salvation Army Parade
The Salvation Army meetings conducted by Colonel Jack Addie assisted by Ensign J. Westerbrook are increasing in enthusiasm and interest. Friday evening, when the army will again parade the streets, they will be increased by a large number of workers from the surrounding cities.

200 TEACHERS OF COUNTY SCHOOLS AT MEETING HERE

School Supervisors And Experts Discuss Work Of Mentors

More than 200 teachers of rural and state graded schools of Outagamie-co., besides several teachers of parochial schools are in attendance at the county teachers institute which opened in the courthouse Friday morning.

The meeting was divided in three sections which were held simultaneously in the circuit court chamber, the office of the county superintendent and the office of the county nurse. The groups moved from one room to the other to take advantage of the special display charts used.

Speakers for the forenoon session were Miss Florence S. Jenkins, county superintendent, Miss Nellie McDermott, supervising teacher, Miss Bertha M. Schultz, county nurse, and the Misses Jennie Peacock and Mildred Carter of the county training school at Kaukauna.

Miss Peacock talked on Plan Books in the superintendent's office, while Miss Carter presented the subject, Opening Exercises, in the county nurse's office. Health work was the subject of Miss Schultz's address, which was supplemented with health exhibits in her office. Miss Jenkins spoke on arithmetic to the groups in the courtroom, while Miss McDermott showed groups in the superintendent's office how seat work is to be conducted.

The institute will continue through Friday and Saturday.

INDIVIDUALS NOT PARTIES COUNT IN MONTANA STATE

Politics Out West Almost Same As In Wisconsin, Says Lawrence

to hit at Dixon who is campaigning energetically to get a state legislature elected friendly to his policies, many Republicans will vote for Democratic candidates right down the line with one or two exceptions. Former Congressman Evans, Democrat, is one of the exceptions. He has endorsed the tax program of Republican Governor Dixon.

To add to the confusion, J. W. Anderson who polled 10,000 votes out of 70,000 in the Republican primaries for United States senator purely on the platform of dissatisfaction with the Harding administration has carried his antipathy to President Harding so far as to announce that he will support B. K. Wheeler, the Democratic nominee for the senate.

Carl Riddick, the Republican nominee for the senate, was a minority choice in the primaries. While he came from the ultra-radical group and was a member of the Non-partisan league, he poses as a conservative and the friend of President Harding. Governor Dixon is quietly keeping out of the senatorial fight but the expectation is that he and Riddick will sooner or later get together.

Mr. Wheeler's chances of victory lie entirely in a coalition of Democrats of both progressive and conservative inclination, regular Republicans and all those who will vote for state candidates who are opposed to the Dixon tax program. In the primaries Mr. Dixon's men won the Republican nomination in half the number of legislative districts.

FOR HARDING HERE

One thing is clear in Montana. The wave of dissatisfaction with the Harding administration, which is noticeable further east, has hardly produced a ripple in Montana. It is true many Democrats who deserted their party in 1920 because of their opposition to the League of Nations have gone back to Democracy's ranks, but it is very good strategy for a Republican here to point with pride to the Harding administration and solicit votes on a stand by the administration platform.

This state was carried by Woodrow Wilson in 1916 by about 50,000 votes. It went for Warren Harding in 1920 by the same majority. The pendulum swung evenly from one party to the other.

State issues will diminish the Republican majority and may even send Wheeler, a Democrat, into the senate, though the chances are rather against such an outcome.

BIG POWERS IN EUROPE VIE FOR AIR SUPREMACY

France Leads, Britain Poor Second—Gliders May Change Industry

BY MILTON BRONNER
London—Supremacy in the air is the goal European nations are racing for. France stands easily first, with England a poor second, and Germany a great question mark.
British engineers are trying to off-set French numerical superiority while the best German brains are at work not only inventing new devices but evading the restrictions put up on their air future by the allies.
GLIDERS IMPORTANT
These developments are causing the most concern—especially to the French.
Germany's recent amazing strides in perfecting gliders which they claim may change the entire future of air history, while a German glider remained up more than two hours the best the French could do was five minutes.
The reported manufacture in a neighboring country under German supervision of the powerful all metal giant monoplane known as the Zeppelin Staaken.
Stirred by her fears of possible German aggression in the future and determined to preserve her military domination on the continent France has the largest and best trained military air service in the world. Laurent Eynac, French air minister, claims his country stands first both in military and commercial aviation.
French aircraft factories, encouraged by the government are turning out 150 machines a month. France has 126 squadrons of airplanes in her offensive and defensive forces and by the end of next year proposes to have 220 squadrons, or nearly 2,000 ready for active duty. In addition there are 500 planes in civilian work capable of being used for military purposes.
Commercial air travel is possible between Paris and London, Brussels, Strasbourg, Amsterdam, Prague, Warsaw, Vienna, Budapest, Lausanne and Marseilles between southern France and Morocco between Toulouse and Barcelona, and a line is in preparation between Paris and Constantinople.
England is bestirring herself as the result of a scare in Parliament. A bare it was authoritative, stated that the total active British military force was 82 1/2 squadrons, of which 20 were scattered through Egypt, Palestine, Mesopotamia and India. Parliament was startled by the admission that only 97 British planes certified as airworthy are in civil aviation and only 83 of them of value for military purposes. Commercial lines are mainly between London and Paris and Brussels.
Premier Lloyd George has announced that a force of 500 machines would be provided for home defense at an annual cost of $10,000,000. The British are experimenting with several new devices, building a super flying boat, preparing a bombing machine of enormous horsepower, constructing six all metal machines, and planning a flying repair ship.
With German military airplanes destroyed and commercial aircraft construction restricted, Germany complains that the air industry has been throttled. Nevertheless she has worked wonders with 225 machines, 100 of which were old ex military machines. With them they have maintained air service all over Germany and also to Holland and the city of Riga in Russia.

Hard Work Brings Fame, Editor Of "Who's Who" Says; No Short Cut

Men Egotistical, He Declares—Many Wish To Get Name In Famous Edition, But Only 25,000 Are Fortunate

BY ROY GIBBONS
Chicago—For 22 years Albert Nelson Marquis and his faithful pencil have kept company in the editorial offices of the publication "Who's Who in America" here, of which he is editor, publisher and founder, presiding over the hopes of the country's great and near great.
Today, after over two decades of close observation Marquis has come to the conclusion that there is no short cut to fame, but that glory goes only to him who works and waits.
"That's it," he said with a cheery smile, "renown is not a matter of long perseverance and consistent accomplishment. Luck—I don't believe in it—and if there is such a thing as enters only remotely into the possibility of any man's chance of becoming famous."
25,000 GREAT
The current edition of "Who's Who" which is published biennially contains some 25,000 sketches or biographical biographies of the nation's conspicuous citizens who have achieved success in a particular field or have been elected or appointed to high federal or state office.
From statistics he has compiled Marquis estimates that the chance of anyone becoming great is one out of every 1,000 of mid population.
He also says that the ratio of eminence is greater in men who have passed their sixtieth birthday and in women who have rounded the half century mark.
As soon as a person dies his name is removed from "Who's Who." And the proud cognomen of officeholders are also given a funeral when the people who bear them pass into private life as the wheel of political fortune turns over.
No one who knows Marquis envies him his job. Each day he is called upon to placate scores of people who write demanding apologies, explanations and invitations to duels—with his own choice of weapons—for having omitted their names.
"Why haven't you got me in there?" demands one man. "I'm alderman from the Tenth ward and I bought a copy of your book on purpose expecting to find you at least given me honorable mention."
Another writer, a woman, and the

Instant Quaker Oats

The Quickest-Cooking Oats in the World

Quaker Oats now come in two styles—regular and Instant. Both have that super-flavor—the flavor that won the world. Both are flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flaky oats.
But in Instant Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small thin flakes cook quickly.
Instant Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. It is the quickest-cooking oats in the world.
In those two ways Quaker Oats excel. Say which you want, regular or Instant. But, if you love flavor, insist on the Quaker brand.

"Naturally we don't print panegyrics such as that either, but set the blue pencil to work and start boiling down."
Marquis thinks that men are just as egotistical as women when it comes to talking about themselves.
He is also confident that equal suffrage and the growing tendency of women to march more into the affairs of things will greatly aid them in bridging the disparity which has always existed between them and men in the number of figures before the public eye.
Requesters for admission of any name into "Who's Who," Marquis says, include creditable personal endeavor in a recognized field of effort, or else an acknowledged and conspicuous place in a prominent office. In the first class are artists, writers, singers, lecturers, philanthropists and business executives. In the second, grouping automatically go the names of army and navy officers over a certain rank.

$495,000 PAID FOR PREMIER'S MEMOIRS

London—English writers are still speculating on the amount Premier David Lloyd George is likely to realize on his projected book of memoirs. There is still considerable mystery as to what financial arrangements the publishers have made with the British Prime Minister for the book and serial rights at home and abroad. One London publishing firm gives the following figures:
American serial rights...$200,000
American book rights.....100,000
English serial rights.....75,000

A digger into historical record says the sum offered Mr. Lloyd George constitutes a record. He finds that Milton received $75 for "Paradise Lost," and Goldsmith $300 for "The Vicar of Wakefield." Samuel Johnson made about $500 out of "Rasselas," which he wrote in order to obtain enough money to give decent burial to his mother and pay off her few debts.
Jane Austen sold the manuscript of "Sense and Sensibility" for $750, which she described at the time as "a prodigious recompense."

'Y' CAMPAIGNERS MEET TONIGHT TO START BIG DRIVE

Annual Effort to Obtain Association Members Gets Underway Tomorrow

Everything is prepared in advance and the blocks a man is to work designated for him. He will be given an envelope containing cards, descriptive literature, report envelope application blanks and buttons. Every team member is supposed to call on each man and boy in his area whether he has a card for the person or not. Everything is on a residence basis, but business addresses will be given so persons may be called upon at their offices. Committees from the board of directors will divide up the sustaining membership. These will be credited to divisions instead of teams.

Contrary to the general impression there is to be no increase in membership fees over last year if they are paid in cash. The rates will be higher under the deferred payment plan, however. The aim is to have all subscriptions paid in full with apportionment.

NEW CLASSIFICATION

It is expected that the new senior boys' classification will appeal to many of the eligible youths between the ages of 18 and 21. It was felt that the jump from a boys' fee to the full membership rate was more than the average person of that age could pay. The new group under J. E. Dennison, boys' work secretary, therefore was created, with membership at $10 cash, or $11 deferred payment. A special club will be formed to provide activity for the senior boys. Student memberships for Lawrence college, business college or other schools are $10 cash or $11 deferred and are for nine months.

Four large pennants of colors of the divisions are hoisted on the flag pole and will be shifted from day to day showing the standing of each group, with the leader at the top. All activities are suspended except the shower baths.

FLAGMAN HURT IN WRECK OF TRAINS AT RAIL JUNCTION

Soo And Northwestern Line Trains Figure In Collision Near Dale

William Singisnie, flagman, had his arms and hands badly crushed Thursday afternoon as the result of a train wreck at Barnard Junction, three miles east of Dale. A Soo engine was switching on the tracks when a North Western freight train crashed into it where the lines cross, tipping the Soo engine completely over and forcing the North Western engine partially off the tracks.

Mr. Singisnie, who managed to get away from the collision before being completely crushed, was taken to Theda Clark hospital, Neenah. Mat thew Dallhausen, fireman on the Soo engine who also was taken to the hospital was injured so slightly as to be able to leave the hospital Friday morning.

Due to a strike on the part of the wrecking crew the debris from the accident, which happened about 2 o'clock in the afternoon was not cleared away until 11 o'clock at night. All traffic on both lines was held up until that hour.

FORM ORCHESTRA AT CHURCH HERE

Joseph Zickler Organizing Symphony Orchestra At St. Joseph Church

A symphony orchestra is being formed by members of St. Joseph congregation. A preliminary meeting and rehearsal was held a few nights ago, and judging from appearances the organization has a bright future.

Considerable musical talent is available in the congregation and members of the orchestra feel that if those musically inclined will lend their support and cooperation the success of the orchestra is assured.

The man who has undertaken to build up the organization is Joseph R. Zickler, well known in the Fox River valley as a solo cellist. Mr. Zickler is now assuming the duties as conductor of the new organization and maintains that if he is given the necessary support by the members of the parish he will soon have an orchestra that will compare with others in the city.

The orchestra once in operation the congregation will receive considerable benefit and entertainment through it as the orchestra can be used effectively in connection with the parish choir in principal feast days such as Easter and Christmas, etc., the director suggested. It is also his intention to prepare this musical body for public concerts which will be held in the parish hall and theater and he intends to start working on a concert program at once.

The instrumentation and the soloists will be announced by the director soon.

NAVIGATION WILL BE RESUMED SOON

Navigation on the lower Fox river may again be in full swing before Nov. 1, according to Major F. S. Skinner of the government engineering office at Milwaukee who was in Appleton Thursday to conduct a hearing on the granting of permits for the erection of Cherryst and Lawest bridges.

The usual time for the closing of navigation is about the last of November if shipping is resumed within the next two weeks, which Maj. Skinner hopes will be possible that will leave nearly six weeks for the shipment of coal on the river.

Cement structural work has been completed at the locks at Little Rapids which were washed out in the floods of June 10. Work is now being rushed on the earth filling.

CLIMBS TREE TO WATCH GAME, FALLS, BREAKS ARM

Too much interest in the Lawrence college football practice and too little attention to his footrest proved a sad experience for Sam Ornstein, 9, son of Joseph Ornstein 555 Northst about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He is in St. Elizabeth hospital with a compound fracture of the left arm.

The youth climbed a tree outside the fence at Lawrence field to watch the players at practice. He lost his hold and fell to the ground. Another spectator took the boy to the hospital.

"My Sweetheart Frightened Me"

A fear and a discovery

"WHEN he came back from his vacation yesterday my sweetheart said I had changed. He wouldn't tell me how, but I saw him looking at my hair. My mirror showed me what I hadn't realized before. The light has gone out of my hair. Its color is dead. How can I make it bright again?" —R. M. S.

WHETHER your hair is blonde, brown or brunette, you can glorify it with a single "touch of henna shampoo." The most exclusive hairdressers in New York give this treatment to their patrons. They know a touch of henna in the shampoo will bring out, as if by magic, the most brilliant glow and luster of every hair.

The only "touch of henna shampoo" is HENNAFOAM. The touch of henna in HENNAFOAM is prepared for beautifying the hair, by a scientific process. It is blended with pure vegetable oils which cleanse and invigorate the hair and scalp. If you want to give your hair its own richest radiance now, use HENNAFOAM.
